Romulus City Council eyes $150,000 savings with new telephones

Installation of the latest communications systems could save the city of Romulus at least $150,000 over the next 10 years, and the change is being considered by city council.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar last week presented recommendations for a new telephone system to council. Following discussion, council members took the matter under advisement and asked the administration to investigate the experience of other communities using the new equipment.

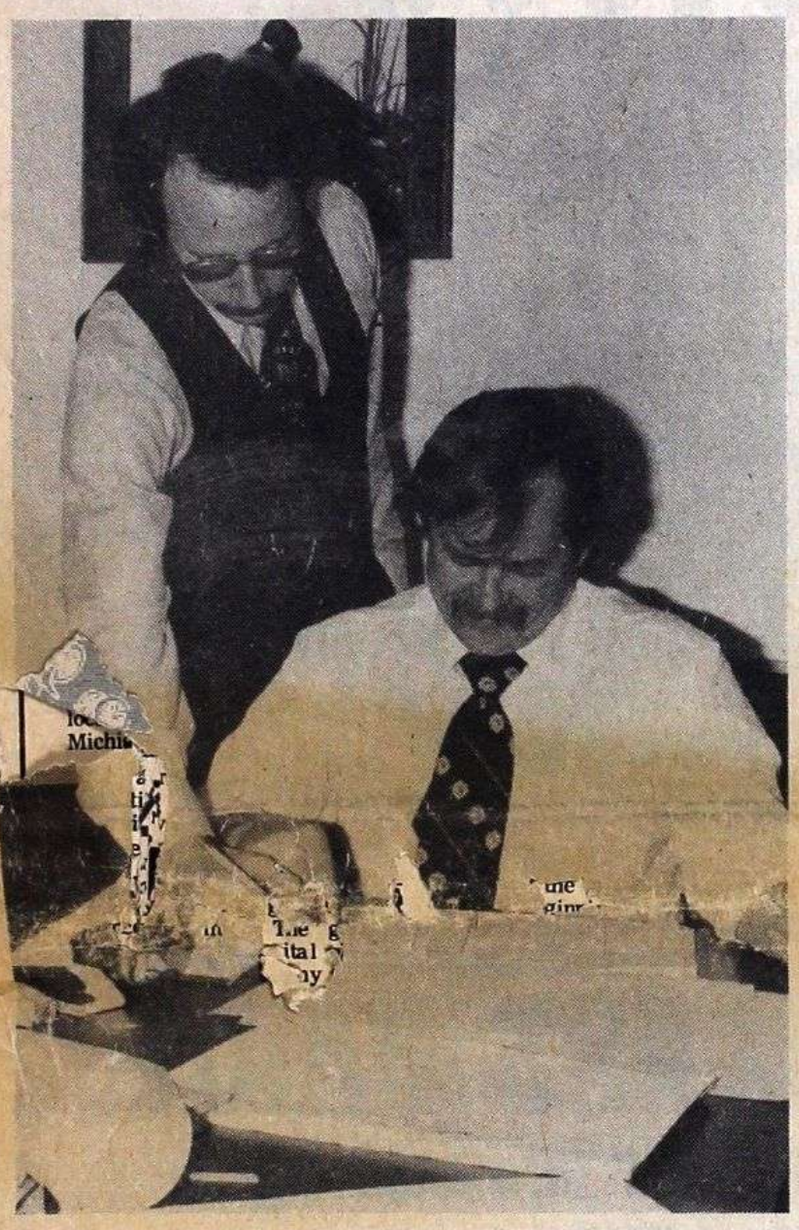
"Our review has shown that new equipment on the market; available through Michigan Bell, ITT and other companies, could save us as much as $150,000 over a 10-year period just in equipment cost," the clerk explained.

Should the company selected for the project recommend a decreased number of telephones, Folmar said, the savings to taxpayers could even greater.

"The city of Romulus is spending an inordinate amount of money on zone calls. We believe the new system could control this abuse of the city's communications system by some city employees," he added.

The clerk said the new communication system also would have the capability of providing a computer printout of all calls made, where calls were made, what extension or number the call was made on, duration of call, and other valuable information.

Folmar said once the information on how other communities are faring with the new type of communications systems is compiled, it will be given to council for its review of the matter.



Mayor works on budget

Mayor William M. Oakley and Administrative Coordinator John Shea (standing) work over the new 1979-80 fiscal year general-fund budget for delivery to the city council by the April 1, 1979 deadline set by city charter. The document, which represents some two months of preparation, earmarks approximately $6,000,000 for city services, an increase of $12,000 over last year's budget. The budgetary process was complicated somewhat this year because of declining revenues due to the cutback in several federal programs, and the bite inflation takes out of the city's purchasing dollar every year. The new budget calls for a continuation of the general level of services familar to Romulus residents, according to the mayor. By charter, the city has 45 days before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1979, to adopt a budget. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Youth admits killing girl in apartment

A 17-year-old youth pleaded guilty last week (Tuesday) in Wayne County Circuit Court to the stabbing death last August 12 of Jill Harvey, 16, of Van Buren Township.

Entering a guilty plea to second degree murder charges was Charles Colwell, 17, of Detroit, who will be sentenced April 23, according to John Bianco, assistant county prosecutor.

The hearing was held in the court of Judge Horace Gilmore.

The young girl's body was found early on a Saturday morning by her mother. She had been stabbed several times and her throat slashed, police said.

Colwell later was identified as the person seen driving the dead girl's car shortly after her body was discovered.

He was later identified as the boyfriend of the slain girl's older sister, who he lived with in Detroit, police said.

Pre-school screening, kindergarten soon

Youngsters like the one shown in photo will receive free vision, hearing and speech examinations April 23 to May 9 by the Romulus Community Schools. Parents of three, four, and five-year-olds will be contacted by mail by April 10 for the checkups. All children who will be five years old and entering kindergarten in September of this year must be enrolled at this time, according to Marvin P. Fischer, assistant superintendent. Parents who do not receive notice by mail of pre-school screening and kindergarten enrollment are asked to call 721-4760.

A Texas truck driver charged with the murder of Steven R. Lynch, 23, a Van Buren Township soldier driving home on leave last September, pleaded guilty last week (Thursday) to a reduced charge of second degree felony murder in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Pleading guilty before Judge Joesph Rashid was Billy Ray Davis, 22, of Tyler, Tex.

A police spokesman said Davis agreed to the plea to escape execution and that he would be sentenced to life imprisonment, with parole possible in 10 years.

Davis told Judge Rashid he was hitchhiking and was picked up by Lynch and that he shot and robbed the military policeman while the two men were target shooting with Lynch's handgun in a field not far from the soldier's parents' home in Van Buren Township.

Davis said he stole Lynch's car, abandoned it in Monroe and fled the area in another vehicle. He was arrested by Missouri state troopers several weeks ago when the truck he was driving was involved in an accident. A subsequent police check showed Davis was wanted for questioning in the death of the Van Buren soldier.

Controversial judge is target of new bill to remove him

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Although the public fury and controversy over the recent jailing of the Van Buren Township Board has momentarily died down, the judge who ordered the incarceration seems headed for a few headaches himself.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman is the center of a recent resolution introduced in the Michigan Senate which would have him removed from the bench not only for his jailing order, but for statements he made to the press and for "inappropriate conduct."

A resolution introduced on the Senate floor March 13 by Sen. John Wellborn (R-Kalamazoo) would, with a two-thirds vote of both houses, remove Kaufman from the bench until the matter which precipitated his jailing order was ironed out to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

The Van Buren board was cited with contempt of court by Judge Kaufman for refusing to sign an agreement paving the way for a hookup by a proposed mobile home park to nearby Ypsilanti sewage system. Their week in jail from March 2-9 marked the second time Kaufman had them incarcerated, the first being for one day in late December 1978.

Disclosure of Sen. Wellborn's resolution was confirmed by David Callanan, administrative aide to Sen. William Faust (D-Westland), Senate majority leader. Callanan said the bill also was co-sponsored by four other senators, two Republicans and two Democrats.

Co-sponsors are: Sen. Joseph Mack (D-Ironwood), Sen. William Hoffman (D-Madison Heights), Sen. Robert Vanderlaan (R-Grand Rapids), Senate minority leader; and Sen. Edgard Fredricks (R-Holland).

After debating Sen. Wellborn's proposed bill for an hour, it was referred to the Senate committee on adminstration and rules, chaired by Sen. Faust, Callanan said.

Cited in Sen. Wellborn's resolution as reasons for Judge Kaufman's removal from the bench were: utilizing the authority of the court despite availability of less severe action such as a writ of mandamus, use of contempt authority in violation of the Michigan Code of Judicial Conduct, unreasonable and humiliating actions of exceptional severity, controversial statements to the news media which obscured the facts and which were stated in a controversial manner and tone in violation of the Michigan Code of Judicial Conduct, and on March 2, 1979, the day of the board jailing, acting with "improper demeanor and in a biased manner."

Adding to Judge Kaufman's possible future woes is a request by Sen. Faust and Rep. Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) to the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission asking for an investigation of the judge's handling of the sewer hookup case, Callanan said.

The investigation request by the two legislators was a follow through on their announced intentions of having Judge Kaufman checked on prior to his release of the Van Buren board.

Five members of the township board - Sup. Pat Cullin and trustees Fred Domen, Tom Welty, Donna Hall and Jerry Maton - were ordered

Clear county land for fence

Wayne County tree removal crews cut a 20-foot-wide swath between Northline and Eureka roads last week, to make way for a new six-foot-high chain-link fence to be erected on county land west of Wayne Road. The land, part of a clear zone established by the county for the northeast southwest runways, is the last remaining county land adjacent to Metro Airport that is unfenced. Last year, a large area of land south of Eureka Road was enclosed to protect an extended landing light pattern constructed south of the airport. Airport planners are currently in the middle of a future use study of the giant air facility, one of the alternatives being the costruction of a new east-west runway, which would require an extended clear zone in the area being fenced. The trees being removed were mostly willows and maples, ranging in age from 25-50 years old. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Some answers about the Islamic faith

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Features Syndicate

Once looked upon in the West as "somebody straight out of a bad Sydney Greenstreet movie," the Arab today is enjoying a new respect in the eyes of the Western world.

Both the Arab world and the West have come to the conclusion that they need each other. But before the West can properly understand the Arab world, it must understand the religion of the Arabs.

This is because the Arab religion, Islam, plays such a strong role in the secular life of the Arab — much stronger than the teachings of Christianity play in the secular life of the West, as is becoming increasingly apparent since the new Islamic government took over in Iran.

Following are answers to some questions about this hold Islam has on its adherents and how "the finger of Allah" could influence world affairs.

A: Islam, with 530 million adherents, is the world's second largest religion. (Christianity has 925 million followers.)

Q: What do the words Islam and Moslem mean?

A: Both words come from the Arabic word "aslama," which means to surrender (to God).

Islam is the name of the religion which had its beginnings in 610 A.D., when the angel Gabriel is said to have revealed the word of Allah to the prophet Mohammed as he fasted in a desert cave in Arabia. Moslem is the name given to a follower of Islam.

The essential simplicity of Moslem beliefs, which makes them easy for everyone to accept, also has kept Islam from breaking up into a multitude of sects, which has been the fate of Christianity. It is this unity which has made Islam such a powerful force in Moslem countries.

Q: Why does Islam play such a large role in the day-to-day life of the Moslems?

A: This is primarily because Moslems make no distinction between the secular and the religious life. They see "the finger of Allah" in everything.

Q: To many observers, Islam seems anything but simple. Isn't it true that it is enormously complex?

A: Yes. Islam as a belief is relatively simple compared to Christianity, with its dogmas and doctrines of the atonement, incarnation, etc. But the way of life for a Moslem is indeed complex.

Moslems must pray five times a day. They stop whatever they are doing at prescribed hours, face Mecca — the birthplace of Mohammed in Saudi Arabia — and recite their prayers while touching their forehead to the ground.

More than this, it is the intricate legal system of Islam, containing rules for virtually every aspect of life, which makes for the complexity of living out the Islamic religion. Many of these rules have not changed since the Middle Ages.

There have been changes, but these have been mostly superficial. Some Arab governments have allowed reforms to creep in, but the new Islamic courts in Iran are meting out punishments prescribed by the Moslem religion 1,300 years ago.

Women are being required to give up Western-style dress, which many adopted, and to return to the wearing of the veil and the head-to-ankle black robes.

Moslem traditionalists also defend the practice of keeping women separate from men in public.

"If men and women work separately, their output increases 10 times," said a Pakistani Moslem traditionalist. "Besides, think of all the time you spend adorning yourself to appeal to the opposite sex."

The new Islamic government in Iran also refuses to annul the ancient law which permits a man to divorce his wife simply by repeating, "I divorce thee" three times.

The antagonism between the cultures of Islam and Christianity goes back to the Crusades in the Middle Ages, when the two were pitted against each other for control of the holy places of Jerusalem. Even earlier, Islam had defeated a large part of Western Christendom in Asia, Africa and Spain.

This movement of Islam — militarily, spiritually and intellectually — was threatening to the fundamentals of Christianity and left the entire Western world afraid and terrified for centuries.

Today there is a new fear of the Arab world abroad in the West. Although it is now primarily economic, this fear can be tied to the Moslems' ancient hatred of Western ways.

Covenant Players stage sacred play

The Covenant Players will provide the next program under the theme of relational outreach, of the Lenten Series at Community United Methodist Church of Romulus.

The sacred drama will be presented at 7:15 p.m. at the elementary school, located across from the church at 11165 Olive St., Romulus.

The Covenant Players, a troupe of Christian actors based in California, travel throughout the country, staging plays in churches. Several contingents are traveling in Michigan in groups of four and are housed over night in the homes of church members.

They stem from tradition of the Middle Ages of troubadors and morality plays.

According to Pastor Flloyd Ellison, there is no admission charge, however, a free-will offering will be received.

General superintendent will speak at church

Robert W. McIntyre, the general superintendent from Marion, Ind., will be on hand for a four-day revival at the Romulus Wesleyan Church, located at 37300 Goddard Road, Romulus.

The revival will be tonight through Saturday at 7 p.m. and at 6 p.m. Sunday.

McIntyre is a graduate of Marion College in Marion, Ind., and the Miltonvale Wesleyan College in Miltonvale, Kan. He has done graduate study at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

Married, he and his wife have five

The public is invited to participate in the revival.

Nature walk planned

"Sounds of Spring" will be investigated during a family nature walk at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on April 15 at 2 p.m.

The 2-hour trip will emphasize the songs of birds, as well as the amphibian chorus. The hidden messages in these beautiful and varied vocalizations will also be discussed by park naturalist Bob Wittersheim.

Vehicle entry permits are required and cost annual regular, $7, senior citizen, $2, or daily, $2.

In brief

Beauty eyed for roads

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) announced that the Michigan Department of Transportation will take bids this month for: watering shrubs and plants along 15 miles of I-275 from the Monroe County line to Michigan Avenue in Romulus (plant establishment). The estimated cost of the project is $60,000 and the completion date is September, 1979; watering shrubs and plants along 3.8 miles of I-94 from east of Belleville Road, east to Ozga Road in Romulus (plant establishment). The approximate cost of the project is $35,000 and the completion date is September of 1979.

Jaycee drive set

The Romulus Jaycees have set May 19 as membership night in the organization's annual membership drive which is currently in progress.

Membership night will be held from 8 p.m. until midnight at the VFW Hall in Romulus, according to Gary Harris, external vice president.

He said an announcement would be made at a later date of the program and festivities for the annual event.

Senior bowling meet set

Senior citizens of the Romulus and Van Buren Township areas will compete May 21, in the annual bowling tournament sponsored by the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association at Taylor Lanes, 24800 Eureka Rd., Taylor.

Seniors who participate will be sponsored by the Romulus and Van Buren parks and recreation departments.

Men and women, 55 years of age or older, are eligible to compete, using the highest average of 15 games bowled during the 1978-79 season.

Entry deadline is April 30. For information on entry forms, seniors are requested to call Romulus Recreation Department at 941-0666, extension 67, or the Van Buren Township Recreation Department at 699-7474.

First place winners in the Taylor tournament will compete in the state bowling meet June 6 in Lansing.

Youth admits larceny

David Cooper, 17, of 29039 River Oak, Romulus pleaded guilty last week in Romulus 34th District Court to attempted larceny in a building, police reported.

The youth, a recent escapee from the Maxey Reform School located near Pickney, last October allegedly broke into Mich. the Greenlawn Grove flea market located at 16447 Middlebelt Rd. and stole meat and beverages from the building.

However, methodical police work by Romulus Youth Officer John Lewis and Wayne County Sheriff detectives Robert Pond and Edward Lindberg led to the youth's arrest last month.

Trial has been set for April 20, 1979 at Wayne County Circuit Court. Cooper is back at the Maxey Home awaiting trial.

Divorce lecture slated

The YWCA of Western Wayne County, in cooperation with the Women Justice Center, will sponsor a "Divorce Overview", Wednesday, April 4 at 7 p.m. The location of the YWCA is 26279 Michigan Ave., Inkster.

Taylor attorney, Sandra Ganostia will give a general overview of the legal issues and the divorce process.

The YWCA also sponsors bi-monthly support groups for divorced women. The groups, which serve as a vital support system, are open to any woman separated, in the process of divorce, or recently divorced.

One group meets every other Thursday from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church in Livonia. The session on April 5 will include a representative from the Feminist Credit Union who will discuss finances and the single woman.

A day-time support group will meet every other Monday from 1 - 3 p.m. at the YWCA building in Inkster, beginning Monday, April 9.

Jacob Koch is laid to rest; former Romulus police chief

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

A well-known Romulus man, who earned meritorious citations in law enforcement in Detroit and later served as Romulus Police Chief for 10 years, died March 26 after a short illness.

Jacob J. Koch, of 12030 Craig, passed away last week in Wayne's Annapolis Hospital at the age of 66.

Services were held March 29 from Baum Funeral Home to St. Aloysius Church with Fr. John Buehner officiating. Entombment was at Michigan Memorial Park.

Serving as pallbearers and honorary pallbearers were members of Romulus Rotary Club. Koch joined that service group in 1967 and was very active in it until the present time, and served as president.

"Jake and I were inducted into the Romulus Rotary Club the same night in 1967 and he became a very dedicated member," said Doug Baum, owner of the funeral home.

JACOB J. KOCH

"In fact, he was active in so many Rotary activities, many referred to the group as Jake's Rotary Club."

Koch is survived by his wife, Eileen; son Frank; four grandchildren, Betty Eileen; Leslie Ann; Kelley Jo and Jacob Eugene; brother Frank of Farmington Hills; two sisters, Mrs. Robert (Katherine) Berford of Dearborn and Mrs. Harold (Eva) Riffenburg of Wixom.

Koch was preceded in death Jan. 26, 1979 by his son, Richard J. Koch, who was a detective with Wayne County Sherriff Patrol.

Jacob, who was called "Jake" by his host of friends, retired on Jan. 1 of last year and was honored at a retirement party by his fellow workers at city hall.

Anyone who has been around Romulus very long is familiar with the name of "Jake" Koch (pronounced Cook). He was appointed chief of police of Romulus Township in 1965 after 26 years of service as an officer in the Detroit Police Dept.

He served in that capacity until 1975 when he assumed the duties as code enforcement officer, to enforce and maintain local ordinances and laws of the city.

"Yes, a lot of changes have taken place since I first began as a young police officer in 1937," Koch said at the time of his retirement, recalling his entrance into law enforcement some 42 years ago.

Koch was born on Jan. 1, 1913 in Detroit and attended Henry Ford Trade School, Edison Institute of Technology and Detroit Institute of Technology High School before studying mechanical engineering for two years at Detroit Institute of Technology.

After working on sheet metal layout, jigs and fixtures for three years at Gar Wood Industries in Highland Park, Koch decided to join the Detroit Police Department in 1937. He began a law enforcement career, which saw him rise from a police officer to detective in 1948, where he served until his retirement from the Detroit force in 1964. His steady rise in rank began one year after becoming one of Detroit's "finest."

In 1938 he was assigned to the accident prevention bureau, where he did investigative work, photographing, recording and prosecution of accident cases. He loved his work and labored hard. He won promotion to the position of administrator in November of 1945. Working with the scientific lab, Jake inaugurated the use of drunk-o-meter tests in accident cases presented in court. He was the first officer to be declared an expert witness by the court in the use of the drunk-o-meter in these cases.

His dedication won him promotion to the detective bureau in April, 1948. Assigned to precinct detective bureau, he investigated and prosecuted all types of crime. Three years later — in 1951 — Koch was assigned to the special investigation bureau where he was entrusted with the investigation and prosecution of a wide variety of cases, specializing in fraud, and city investigations of frauds involving aid to dependent children, arson, abduction, activities of hoodlums and gangsters, frauds involving charitable solicitations, city investigation, including embezzlement and larcenies from various city departments, and counterfeiting.

He also worked extensively in investigating explosions and bombings, extortion, fake telegrams and cablegrams, broadcasting used in crime, false advertising, gypsy confidence and frauds, frauds involving Michigan Employment Security Commission benefit payments and a host of other violations of the law.

He retired on March 2, 1964 from the Detroit Police Department as a detective after 26 years as an officer.

He was out of police work for the next 17 months, supervising up to 10 men at Koch Metal Products in Detroit. But the lure of law enforcement was so strong he was hired as chief of police for what was then Romulus Township.

He had a list of duties as long as his arm and thoroughly enjoyed his work. From Aug. 5, 1965 to Feb. 2, 1975, Koch held that job which also included a variety of other responsibilities.

To keep abreast of changing times, he attended Michigan State University, Continuing Education Service, in traffic engineering principles presented by the Highway Traffic Safety Center. Koch also attended Oakland University Traffic Code for Cities, Village and Townships.

In February of 1975, Jake was retained by the City of Romulus as code enforcement and much of his work was behind a desk. At his retirement party last year, he was presented with a gold watch and expressed his gratitude to all who took part.

"It's really nice to be remembered this way and I'll always have a fond place in my heart for this city and its people," Koch said then. "I feel I gave my best to the work I did here and I received a lot in return."

Yes, "Jake" Koch had great admiration and dedication to Romulus and its people — and they loved him also.

Doug Baum probably summed it up best when he said: "Jake Koch was the most dedicated Rotarian in Romulus and was always willing to help his community.

"He left a lasting impression on all of us who knew him and loved him so much."

Lamb honored for community work

Earl Lamb (right), retiring chairman of the Romulus Help Center board of directors, was honored recently at a banquet in Taylor for his more than 25 years of service to the Romulus community. Jason Lovette (left) served as master of ceremonies and Don Melcher (center) presented Lamb with a plaque in recognition of his service. A former teacher, assistant principal and administrator with the Romulus Public Schools, Lamb was one of the original group of Romulus residents who formed the Romulus Help Center and spearheaded volunteer crisis counseling and job finding services provided by the agency.

Avoid those against

Millage backers shun any publicity

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Except for the publicity generated two weeks ago by the Enterprise, many residents of the Van Buren school district are unaware of the large millage election next Monday.

A low-keyed approach to this year's millage election and an admission that a citizens advisory committee was purposely avoiding "negative groups" in trying to drum up votes for passage of the total 16.66 mill package was admitted Monday.

Supt. Elvin Peets agreed that the citizens advisory group was taking a low-keyed approach because its members felt they had "established confidence last year" among school district voters. Chairman of the group is Mike Mlsna, school board president.

Peets, who came in as school head last year, said he was still a "newcomer" and took more of a passive role in the millage campaign, preferring rather to "listen."

Dr. Peets said he believed the citizens advisory committee evidently did not feel it was necessary "to go all out again."

Mrs. Barbara Faler, who is serving as publicity chairman for the citizens committee, was out of the city and could not be reached for comment on the lack of publicity she and her fellow members were generating.

However, another committee member, Mrs. Mary Ann Bassett, who said she was a stern advocate of all children receiving the best education possible, said she felt frustrated at times over the committee's actions.

"Some members of the committee feel that they can't touch the negative people, those who are opposed to voting for the millage. They feel these people can't be reached," she explained.

Mrs. Bassett, who is in charge of mailing postcards on the coming millage election, said a telephone committee last week discovered that many of the school district residents they contacted did not know that a millage election was set for next Monday.

"I do know that all of the parents who attended the recent parent-teacher conferences in the elementary schools received millage literature," she said.

Mrs. Bassett said it was common knowledge that "the same people" get involved in millage elections each year.

When contacted by the Enterprise and asked about the lack of publicity on the millage election, Dr. Peets said he had asked Mrs. Bassett to have Mrs. Faler call the newspaper. Later, it was revealed that Mrs. Faler had left the city on an out-of-town trip.

Although most millage elections are big news in the communities represented by the local school district, such apparently was not the case here. A monthly newsetter sent out by the Van Buren Public Schools thought so little of the millage election next Monday that it was pushed out of the spotlight on Page 1 by a story on reading problems. Instead, the millage election was placed on Page 3.

Of the 16.66-mill total, 14.35 mills represent two renewal proposals of 7.5 mills and 6.85 mills, each for a three-year period.

Dr. Peets two weeks ago termed their passage vital if the Van Buren school system was to retain North Central Association accreditation for Belleville High School. Should oe or both millage proposals fail, he said it would be a "disaster."

The balance of 2.31 mills is actually three separate millage proposals - .8 mills for new textbooks; .97 mills for a program to reduce class size to 26 students and to employ two school nurses; and .54 mills for establishing an instructional course in computer science, to provide a vocational counselor for the two junior high schools, to hire two reading specialists, and to hire an additional elementary band instructor.

By breaking the 16.66 total mills down into five separate millage proposals, the school system is banking on all or part of them passing and ensuring that the whole amount does not fail.

Labeled the "shopping list" approach, the format enables voters to pick and choose those millage proposals they wish to vote for or against.

released by Judge Kaufman following an agreement between the judge and the board's attorneys.

Two other board members - Clerk Doreen Craven and Treas. Dorothy York - were freed on the day of their jailing when they signed the sewer hookup agreement under what they termed "protest."

Judge Kaufman freed the five board members after they agreed to abide by the eventual decision of the higher courts and after their exhaustion of all legal avenues. Also, the board agreed to offer a resolution to that effect, thus making the matter a document of public record.

During both jailings, controversy brewed and swirled, with majority of public opinion lining up on the side of the township board. This public sentiment backed up the board's contention that Judge Kaufman was exceeding his authority in ordering them to approve the sewer hookup agreement.

The case got off to a bad start in the early 1970s when Judge Kaufman rezoned the 101-acre parcel destined for the mobile home park and, which in effect, represented a bypass of the normal township channels by the developers.

Since the board's second release from jail, an appraisal requested by Sup. Cullin revealed the land parcel in question increased from a worth of about $89,000 to more than $1 million on the day after it was rezoned March 8, 1973 by the judge.

With sewer connections and the appreciation resulting from inflation since then, Sup. Cullin said the land would probably be worth at least $1.5 million.

FLYING WITH INFANT

Flying with an infant can be simple and inexpensive. The airlines now realize the fact of childbirth and have made arrangements that take much of the hassle and expense out of traveling with infants. On most domestic flights, you can bring along one infant at no extra charge. For international flights, figure 10% of your fare as the cost for the baby, a fee that does not entitle the baby to a seat if the plane is full. If you're traveling with more than one infant, each additional ticket will be half fare and entitled you to another seat.

Most airlines, with a little advance (which we'll be glad to handle) will arrange special seating and advance boarding for the family traveling with a baby. Front-row seating will usually give you more operating room and you can usually pull out the chair arm between seats to make a bed. Some airlines provide bassinettes which hook onto the wall in front of your seat. This is the best arrangement for very young infants.

Comfort-Aire® YOUR HOME or MOBILE HOME
FOR COOL SUMMER LIVING!
Comfort-Aire®
MOBILE PAC COOLING SERIES

Comfort-Aire Mobile Home air conditioning systems put total cooling and heating comfort as close as a wall thermostat. Connected to the existing warm air duct system, conditioned air is circulated to every room giving even whole house temperatures. Packaged systems may be positioned on a poured concrete slab or on concrete patio blocks. With their low cabinet profile, only 23-inches high on the largest system, the air conditioner can be positioned close to the home. Both MPC and PCT mobile home systems install with air supply ducts close to the center of the home to provide a balanced flow of cooled or heated air.

Mobile Pac MPC cooling-only systems come packaged in a single carton with all components included, from flexible ducts to wall cooling thermostat. PCT Series systems let you custom comfort your home with a selection of optional equipment depending on your own cooling and heating requirements. You can select the PCT packaged air conditioner you require, from 36,000 to 59,000 Btu/Hr. cooling, optional flexible dual duct kit, wall thermostats and one of nine optional slide-in electric heaters.

1. ONE CARTON COMFORT — All components are packaged in a single carton. Everything you need to air condition your home is in one box.
2. U-COOL CONDENSER — Quiet operating upflow condenser directs air and fan noise away from living areas and your neighbors. The strong all-aluminum coil efficiently removes heat and humidity from living areas.
3. EVAPORATOR COIL — "A" coils sit above the furnace. Your furnace blower circulates air through the cooling coil, removing humidity while cooling the air, then delivering it to living areas through the existing duct work in your home.
4. ADAPT-A-EASE PLENUM KIT — Provides proper support for the cooling coil above your furnace and provides proper air supply opening for the coil. A special manual shows complete plenum kit installation in your existing furnace.
5. PRECHARGED REFRIGERANT LINES — Quick connect couplings on the insulated refrigerant lines connect the precharged condenser with the pre-charged cooling coil. Field charging is not required with Comfort-Aire-Pac.
6. TRANSFORMER/RELAY — Provides proper voltage and operation of your furnace blower and the Comfort-Aire-Pac system.
7. HEAT/COOL THERMOSTAT — Convenient wall thermostat lets you switch from summer cooling to winter heating at the flip of a switch. It also controls fan and temperature settings for year round comfort.

School district tries again
W-W board sets May 9 millage election date

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

At a special meeting last night, the Wayne-Westland Board of Education was expected to call an election for May 9, to ask voters a second time to approve a 3-mill tax increase for school operation.

The identical proposal was defeated by 142 votes March 5.

However, at the board's regular meeting Monday night, the co-chairmen of the Citizens Committee for School Millage presented the board with more than 4,400 signatures on petitions asking for the special election. Ironically, only 3,340 citizens voted yes to the tax increase issue in the March election. (There were 3,482 no votes.)

So more than 1,000 persons who signed the petitions asking for another election didn't even vote in the first, noted Milton Mack and Dorothy Murphy, co-chairmen of the citizens committee that circulated the petitions. The committee's goal now will be to get those people to the polls in May.

The signatures were collected in only two weeks time, Mack said.

He and Mrs. Murphy suggested an early May election, despite the fact that annual elections for school board members are scheduled for June 11. They said "it is absolutely imperative that the question be put to citizens as soon as possible."

Superintendent Timothy Dyer explained that Canton Township is having a special election May 9 to ask citizens to tax themselves for library services. Because election laws make the voting machines inaccessible for another election for 30 days after an election, and some time before the election, the May 9 date was the only date available for a Wayne-Westland issue, he said. Part of Canton Township is in the Wayne-Westland district.

Dyer said Canton Township has agreed to allow the one precinct of the school district in Canton to share the ballot with the library issue on that day. In Westland and Wayne, the 3 mills for school operation will be the only issue on the ballot.

The school board did not take formal action on the calling of the election Monday night, saying they would consider at the April 2 meeting. However, Tuesday, the board decided to call a special meeting last night for the single purpose of calling the May 9 election.

With the 4,400 signatures on petitions in hand, and the slim 142-margin of defeat from the March 5 election, the second election seemed assured from the start. Board President Fred Warmbier called the petitions "somewhat of a mandate" to call the election.

Monday, Mack told the board, in handing over the thick stack of petitions, that the signatures represented a "massive grassroots support for an election" on the tax increase issue.

Despite the May 9 vote, the board went ahead Monday night and began cutbacks, in the form of layoff of 24 administrators. The notices of layoff must be made now because of contractual obligations with the two unions representing central office administrators and building administrators, which require 90-day notice of layoff before the end of the fiscal year.

At the upcoming Monday meeting, the board will have to approve layoff notices for teaching and support staff, expected to be at least 200 positions. Again, even though the board hopes for passage of the 3-mill tax increase, the layoff notice must be given according to contract.

Gary Matsche, executive director of employee relations, gave the board and audience of about 50 people a brief explanation of how the district will go about determining who will be laid off. The very complicated procedures must take into account seniority of the teacher, his or her certification level, major and minor subjects he or she is qualified to teach, and such. The procedure will see many teachers moved around to different buildings, as they "bump" into other jobs.

Twelve administrators from the central office staff and 12 principals and assistant principals from Wayne-Westland schools were notified Monday night that their contracts will not be renewed next year.

The layoff notices were approved by the school board as part of the beginning of its effort to trim $2 million from next year's budget, the result of failure of a 3-mill tax increase millage election March 5. Despite an upcoming May 9 election where the same question will be asked of voters, the budget cutting process had to begin to give the administrators proper notice.

Positions eliminated by the board action included directors of business services, secondary math and science, elementary math and social studies, art and physical education, language arts, music education and compensatory education. Also being eliminated will be supervisor of research and evaluation and of media services, two foreman of area operations and a transportation dispatcher.

If these employees were formerly members of other bargaining units in the district, they would be able to return to those units and get back the seniority they had when they left, explained employee relations director Gary Matsche. At that point, their layoff status would be determined later when rank and file layoffs are announced. Members of central office staff who never came from another bargaining unit would simply be laid off.

Five elementary school principals, three junior high school assistant principals, three high school assistant principals and an assistant principal for special education, also received layoff notices.

Since those administrators also are professional certified teachers, they will be eligible to use their seniority with the district to "bump" into other teaching jobs where possible, Matsche explained.

The elimination of elementary school principals will mean the creation of some co-principalships between elementary schools.

At Monday's (April 2) school board meeting, the board is expected to approve layoff notices for some 200 teachers and other support staff.

Citizen contributions back millage election

A Wayne citizen stood up at the Wayne-Westland school board meeting Monday night and asked how much money a special election will cost the district.

"About $7,000," Superintendent Tim Dyer responded.

Then Ron Hames walked up to Board President Fred Warmbier and handed him $907, contributions from students, teachers, and parents at Wayne Memorial High School to "help defray the cost" of a special election being called for May 9.

Another member of the audience, a teacher at Adams Junior High School, told of similar fund raising at his school, saying that at least $200 has been collected so far. And "I know of other staffs doing the same thing," he added.

The contributions appeared to take the board a bit by surprise, with the $907 contribution greeted with applause from about 50 persons in the audience.

Hames emphasized that the effort was in large part made by the students, since there was some worry that the board might hesitate to call the election because of the cost.

Hames added that he is sure the Wayne-Westland Citizens Committee for School Millage will be glad to accept other donations to help pay for the election.

"MIGRAINE"

Dear Dr. Elwart:
I have been having headaches for quite some time now. Doctors have told me it's "migrains" and I guess I just have to put up with it. What can chiropractic do? J.P.

Dear J.P.
Headaches that persist or frequently occur are danger signals that something is wrong. Masking the pain with aspirin or pain killers may seem an easy way for relief, however, if the trouble is not corrected, related symptoms begin to appear. Usually the headaches that used to be in different areas begin to localize in one area or in one side of the head, and the patient's illness is diagnosed as migraine. After extensive examinations for tumors, past fractures and what have you, the patient begins to believe that they just have to live with it.

It is discouraging when you spend your time and money in a sincere effort to get well and yet nothing seems to help. Things lose their importance and life becomes miserable!

Chiropractic is successful because it searches for the CAUSE within the body itself, knowing that once the nerve supply in normalized, health is the inevitable result.

Remember for every effect (headaches) there must be a cause (nerve interference). Remove the cause and you have no headaches.

Harden gains promotion

MS3 Carl Harden has been awarded a certificate, promoting him to the rank of Naval petty officer third class, while stationed at the Naval Air Station in Jacksonville, Fla.

He attained high marks in his field, plus overall in leadership.

Harden, married and the father of two children, is the son of Mrs. Phyllis Blanck of Belleville.

Also in the armed forces:

Navy Fireman Recruit Timothy B. Greer, the son of Boyd and Kay Greer of Carleton Rockwood Road, Carleton, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training.

He joined the Navy in November 1978.

Marine Pvt. Steven W. Sims, the son of LeRoy and Jeanette Sims of Ozga, Romulus, was meritoriously promoted to his present rank upon graduation from the Basic Supply Stock Control Course.

The seven-week course was conducted at the Marine Corps Service Support School at Camp Lejeune, N.C. The course was designed to prepare students for future assignment to supply administration and operation duties.

Students received instruction on the use of supply publications and catalogs, plus preparation and filing of naval correspondence and directives.

Navy Seaman Recruit Greg R. Hisey, the son of Ronald D. Hisey of California, Romulus, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects. Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

He joined the Navy in January 1979.

Pvt. Gerald E. Van Buren of Romulus, recently completed a Vulcan crewman course at Fort Bliss, Texas.

During his training, he learned all phases of the firing and tracking systems of this air defense system.

The Vulcan is a 20mm automatic six-barrel gun mounted on a self-propelled armored personnel carrier and is designed primarily for antiaircraft defense.

Van Buren entered the Army in November 1978. He is a 1978 graduate of Woodhaven High School.

Spec. 5 Gordon E. Robbins of Romulus recently was assigned as a mechanic with the 130th Engineer Brigade in Hanau, Germany.

Robbins entered the Army in November 1974.

He completed his high school education through the General Educational Development program.

Michigan Bell takes out last phone number letters

Michigan Bell has taken the few remaining letters out of telephone numbers in its 1979-80 West directories and put in more consumer information to help customers save money.

Haze Wilson, local Michigan Bell manager, said the directory, now being distributed to area residents, has been expanded in response to customer requests for more information about numerous basic and optional telephone company services.

"Much of the information in the customer guide pages in the front of the new directory is designed specifically to help consumers save money," Wilson said.

The directory contains a new page to aid customers in better understanding and interpreting charges and other billing information printed on their telephone bills, as well as a new page listing long distance information andthe most economical times to call Canada, Alaska and Hawaii.

The new telephone books contain only seven-digit telephone numbers, which means that an old number like KLondike 5-2368 appears in the new directories as 555-2368, Wilson said.

Use of the letter-number combinations is being discontinued because of the growth of all-number international direct distance calling and to provide more telephone number combinations to meet continuing demand for phone service.

The conversion to all-digit phone numbers also permits faster dialing and reduces errors due to misspelling or misdialing, Wilson said.

In another effort to better serve customers, Michigan Bell has established separate numbers for area residence and business customers to call for telephone repair service. These numbers are printed on the directory cover.

The Yellow Pages section has alphabetical index tabs first introduced two years ago to help readers find specific classified headings more easily, Wilson said. Customer response to the tabs has been favorable, he added, as well as to the more than 100 consumer tips scattered throughout the book.

Developed with the help of the Better Business Bureau and other consumer groups and safety agencies, the tips offer useful information such as how to protect life and property, how to reduce home heating costs, how to determine shopping bargains and a host of handy tables for making metric conversions.

To make the consumer information even more useful, the last page of the directory is an index on where to find specific consumer tips, Wilson said.

The Softness Of Summer

Soft and natural is the look in clothes for summer. Fashions are soft in texture, soft in construction and soft in color. The colors are natural—sandstone or face powder colors—gentle earth-hues with the warmth and glow of a sun-struck beach. The new neutrals are worn in a subtle mix of tone against tone—not matching, just blending one into another.

Soft and natural is the way to describe how make-up should look for summer, also. Soft—not pale, and natural—but in a healthy new way as we leave winter behind and burst into the color of spring.

As you make up for summer think of gardens with rich flower colors melting into each other, and don't be timid. Make the colors in your face more intense to liven up all the soft, neutral colors of your clothes. Build up your cheek color for greater impact. Blend contour blushers in the hollow just under your cheekbones and brighter blushers on top of the cheekbones to maximize your features. And remember, when you're working with colors—BLEND, BLEND, BLEND!!!

WALLEYE AND SAUGER SIZE LIMIT

The Natural Resources Commission, at its meeting on July 9, 1976, under authority of Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended, renewed for a period of three years beginning January 1, 1977, their order of August 15, 1975, which increased the walleye and sauger size limit to 15 inches. This regulation applies to all waters, including the Great Lakes and connecting waters, except Lake Gogebic, Lake Erie, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, and the Muskegon River from M-20 in Big Rapids to Croton Dam.

PCHA board approves new 1979-80 fiscal budget

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) Board of Directors has approved a record fiscal budget for 1979-80.

The budget will include a record $98,057,256 for total operating expenses, with $58.6 of that figure allotted for salaries, wages and fringe benefits. Expenditures for food supplies and services will exceed $27 million in the new budget, with $4.909 million set aside for capital expenditures.

According to John J. Freysinger, PCHA executive director, the budget covers the second year of operation under the new Blue Cross-Blue Shield prospective reimbursement system which has been designed to reduce the costs of operating hospitals in Michigan.

The authority will finish the current fiscal year with a 13 percent constraint of the new system, and Freysinger said that "each of our (PCHA) five hospitals will earn an incentive bonus based on their ability to hold costs within the 13 percent limit."

Total patients served by the PCHA during the next year are expected to increase by 2.5 percent to a record 253,000. Operating expenses have been budgeted to stay within the 10.5 percent increase allowed during the second year of the reimbursement system.

To assist in recovering anticipated increases in operating costs, the board approved increases in the rates for services rendered, to take effect on July 1. Those increases average 10.6 percent.

Under the provisions of Public Act 47 of 1945 — the state act which governs the operations of all 10 hospital authorities in Michigan — the board levied the annual 4-mill assessment against its 24 member communities. That assessment will raise $1.9 million during the next fiscal year, up from the $ million collected during the current year.

In other action, the board authorized an offer to purchase the vacant Jackson Elementary School, located at Annapolis and Venoy roads across from PCHA's administrative offices at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

The school, a part of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, is a 24,500-square foot building, situated on an 8.5-acre site. The PCHA is offering $400,000 for the facility.

Plans for the building and property have not been firmed up, but possibilities include locating some central office personnel, who currently are working in rented quarters in the City of Wayne there, office space for the anticipated EDP operation, or classroom space for community organizations.

During the meet Donald J. Pizzimenti, PCHA board chairman, was recognized for his "many years of dedicated service to the hospital industry at the state, regional and national levels" by Patric Ludwig, president of the Michigan Hospital Association.

Pizzimenti has been a PCHA board member for 15 years and has served as chairman of the board for the last 13 years.

PCHA is the largest hospital authority in the state with five hospitals — Annapolis in Wayne, Seaway in Trenton, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti and Heritage in Taylor — providing 1,240 beds.

Youths should be wary of some summer jobs

THE Michigan Department of Labor is advising youths looking for summer jobs to be wary of employers who abuse summertime employment.

Don McGrath, head of the labor department's Wage Hour Division, which is responsible for monitoring violations of the wage hour law, said the majority of the state's employers follow the regulations, but those few who don't create problems.

McGrath suggests that youths looking for summer jobs should know the "costs" of their summer job, or they can end the summer with a deficit.

"Youths should be particularly careful of jobs that send them away from home," McGrath said. "These are the kinds of jobs where most often you can end up with a deficit at the end of summer.

"The ad that reads, 'Waiter, waitress wanted, spend summer in beautiful surroundings, play free tennis and have access to pool,' sometimes means that you'll also be doing the gardening, be required to play tennis with guests and wait on pool side customers.

"These jobs look glamorous now, but a lot of youths are disappointed each summer in the middle of that great summer job they have to write home for money."

McGrath suggests youths watch out for a job that requires what is commonly called a pre-employment agreement. If you sign such an agreement you may be signing away some of your rights.

An employer cannot ask you to place a work bond or surety — any kind of cash deposit that can be forfeited, if you fail to work the agreed time.

"This is considered buying a job and occurs mostly in resort areas where employers try to guarantee that an employee will stay through the end of the season, usually the Labor Day weekend. This practice is illegal," McGrath said.

Also, avoid employers wanting you to be your "own company" or independent contractor by declaring that you are conducting business under an assumed name.

McGrath said this is a common guise to avoid paying overtime and is illegal.

Employers in Michigan are required to pay minimum wage of $2.90 an hour and overtime at the rate of 1½ for hours in excess of 40.

Minimum wage is required for anyone 18 and older and aso for youths 16 and 17 that are working in establishments that sell alcoholic beverages.

Another problem area is deductions from employees checks. Watch them carefully. State law limits the deductions that can be made from an employee's check to 25 percent of the state's minimum wage. That includes meals, lodging and tips. Some employers have been known to quote federal law which takes the limit to 50 percent. In this instance state law supercedes the federal law.

McGrath said the labor department has run across employers fining waiters and waitresses for having a button missing.

"It is patently illegal," he said.

Pooling of tips also is restricted. Some restaurants supplement a cook's salary by pooling tips. This can't be done. Tips can be only pooled with persons directly in contact with customers, like waiters, waitresses, bus persons or busboys.

Employers cannot charge for breakages, shortages or walkouts — people skipping without paying their bill.

"The employer is responsible for these items. It has been determined that these are within the scope of the cost of doing business," McGrath said.

Summer jobs for youths should be both financially and psychologically rewarding, and if a youth has a question regarding an employer practice they should contact the Michigan Department of Labor, Wage Hour Division, 7150 Harris Drive, Box 30015, Lansing 48909.

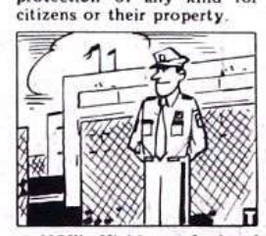
THEN and NOW

THEN: In early America men who kept order in the streets were known as watchmen. A town's citizens were drafted for service just as soldiers were drafted for military duty. Watchmen worked only at night; they spent their days at other employment to support their families. During the daytime there was no protection of any kind for citizens or their property.



NOW: Highly professional organizations today offer a wide range of 24-hour private and industrial security services. One of the largest and most diversified, Burns International Security Services provides over 50 million hours of guard services annually to about 18,000 clients through a network of 119 offices.

In conference

Coordinators from three area school districts for the Bucket Brigade Program gathered recently to finalize plans for the April 7 Inter-state Bucket Brigade Conference, to be held at Mercy College in Detroit. Planning for the annual conference were Arlene Corriveau (from left), Bucket coordinator in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools; Rubby Martin, Building Bucket coordinator in the Farmington Public Schools; Dinghy Sharp, district bucket coordinator, Farmington schools; and Barbara Penman, Bucket Brigade Coordinator in the Waterford Public School District.

Bucket Brigaders to meet

Volunteers from Virginia, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Washington and Michigan will be converging on Mercy College in Detroit April 7 for the yearly Inter-State Bucket Brigade Conference, slated to last from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year's conference will be focusing on the affective aspects of working with children to build self-image and confidence. The featured speakers will be Ray McGee, psycholist, Washburn Child Guidence Center, Minneapolis, Minn.; Gene Watson, educational diagnostician and consultant, Leearning Place, Roanoke, Va.; Dr. Karen Urbschat, information utilization specialist, Wayne County Intermediate School District; Joy Keith Publications, Naperville, Ill.; Jan Droege, Bucket Brigade coordinator, Seattle, Wash.; and Dr. Nora Martin, Eastern Michigan University.

There will be 11 simultaneous workshops at 10:30 a.m., 1:45 p.m. and 3:15 p.m. Each of these sessions will offer suggestions for working with children in the areas of self-image, learning readiness, auditory perception, visual perception, mathmetis, (CHISANBOP, reading and setting up of Bucket Brigade Programs.

Wayne-Westland Community Schools will be contributing the talents of Margaret Anderson, Arlene Corriveau, Sally Ross-Hurd, Eleanor Petty, Carol Schei, Lauralyn Tarasow, Diana Voustinas and Anne Wilkinson to the conference.

This conference is certain to providee parents and volunteers a wealth of practical ideas for using with children. On-site registrations will be accepted. The registration fee of $14 for the day includes lunch and free hand outs. If you have wondered what Bucket Brigade is all about, this conference will help clear any misconceptions.

If you have further questions please call 722-1500 ext. 251 and ask for the Bucket Office.

YWCA sponsors Cottontail luncheon

With visions of spring sunshine, daffodils and Easter eggs, plans are being made for a fun-filled afternoon at the YWCA Easter Cottontail Luncheon.

The luncheon, for preschoolers accompanied by an adult, will take place April 5 and 6 at 12 noon. It will include lunch, entertainment and a visit and treats from the Easter Bunny.

Tickets, which cost $2.25 per person, must be purchased in advance at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 26279 Michigan Avenue, Inkster. Group tickets are available on request.

CPAs offer way to beat capital gains tax deadline

e 1978 Revenue Act brought a gr once-in-a-lifetime windfall to pe ns 55 or over who sell their ho s after July 26, 1978 — no capi gain tax on the profits up to $100 0.

Th means tax savings in some case tens of thousands of dollars for th e who sold or will sell after the cu f date. But what about those who uld have qualified for this hands e tax gift, if they hadn't sold th homes on or before July 26, 197

The chigan Association of Certifie Public Accountants (MACPA has advice for such people, w ch could be a real boon to them. If months have not yet elapsed s e the date of sale, they still may ve time to requalify for the $100,0 exemption by re-investing ckly in a home costing at least as ch as the one they sold, and living it for the next three years. Then ey will be able to sell, with the pro realized protected up to the $100,0 limit.

The CPA ssociation concedes that the ts of becoming homeowners ain — high short-term interest ates, the penalty clause for pre ment, closing and moving expens , and the emotional trauma of it a — could dissuade some older foll from re-involving themselves, t suggests they should at least aware of the opportunity.

What if, after lling a greatly appreciated home early 1978, let's say, the taxpayer ested in a much less expensive r ence; has he thrown away his nces?

No, say the CPA The tax code provides that if he ys more than one property as is principal residence during the 18-month period only the last one is considered his new home. So to keep the option alive it will be necessary to re-invest in another dwelling costing at least as much as the one on which the capital gain was made. Whether you sell or retain the interim home makes no difference as long as the later, costlier acquisition becomes your principal residence within the 18-month period.

What if capital gain tax already has been paid on the profits on the sale? This is unlikely, says an MACPA spokesman, for the taxpayer is not required to declare the gain as income until the 18-month period has expired. If he did declare it, and paid a tax, he can get a refund by filing an amended tax return.

How much time does a person have to requalify? Within 18 months after the sale you must have bought and moved into the replacement home, or have signed a contract for a house to be constructed for you, which will be completed and occupied by you within 24 months of the date of sale. This means that if you otherwise qualify and sold your home on Jan. 2, 1978, you have only until July 2 of this year to complete the purchase.

The CPAs have a warning about that, though. Don't be in such a hurry to requalify that you make a poor investment. If, after three years, you can't resell the new home for at least as much as you paid for it, some or all of your capital gain may be lost.

Whether or not tax is due, the profit on a home sale should be reported on tax returns for the year in which the sale is made. Because of the complexities — and the potential savings — involved, The MACPA recommends that persons in such circumstances seek the assistance of a professional tax adviser.

The highways and seets we drive along he many warning signs we imndiately recognize, tellingus well in advance that potentiallanger lies ahead. The uman body has a similaset of signals. These critical symtoms are often the forerners of more serious diseass . . . diseases that can be avrted if the eight danger sign are heeded in me.

The 8 DangerSigns indicate spinal pressures and tensions on vital nerves:

Headaches
Loss of sleep
Pain between the shulders
Stiffness or pain in lowr back
Stiffness of the nek
Numbness in the arms hands
Numbness or pain in te legs
Painful joints

Consult your Family Chiropractor

Every occupation creates its own stresses and strains, creating spinal pressure and tension on delicate, sensitive nerves. This is true of office workers as it is of heavy construction laborers; of housewives as it is of children at play. These nervous system "short circuits" adversely affect normal nerve energy flow, robbing the vital organs of their proper controlling force. Chiropractic care releases this latent force and restores the circumstances wherein normal function of these vital organs may be resumed.

Protect your health— See your Chiropractor now!

When any one of these important danger signs appears in a member of your family, you should call your family chiropractor immediately. With quick action on your part, and the training and ability of the chiropractor, it is entirely possible that pain and ill-feeling will be replaced by glowing good health.

Park's trash order creates in-home stink

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

The morning after she received the notice, Carla Heath flung open her front door and began to haul in her trash.

Next door Delores Jones, with a family of four, was seen doing the same.

Neither of the women liked the Holiday Woods Mobile Home Park's new rule that some residents to store their trash inside their homes seven days a week.

Neither of them liked being "singled out", groaning between themselves that rules should apply to all . . . or none at all.

But neither of the Sumpter Township residents refused compliance for fear they would receive an eviction notice from park owner Sheldon Futernick.

"This rule stinks, and, boy, so does my garbage," Mrs. Jones lamented. "Park managers come and go faster than the weather changes.

Sue Zacharuk, park manager, gave residents 24-hour notices to comply with the order that garbage be kept within their homes until Thursday pick-up, or face possible eviction.

She admits only "certain" residents received the 24-hour notice, but denied the action was arbitrary.

Although complying with the order, residents like Mrs. Jones, who are raising families, are charging that the trash rule creates an undue hardship.

"We have lots of garbage, and it's awful having it lined up in the kitchen and nowhere to put it," Mrs. Jones said.

Both Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Heath inquired about the possibility of setting the garbage out in metal containers.

"I even asked if I could keep it in my shed," Mrs. Jones said, "but she (Mrs. Zacharuk) said it had to be kept in my home. So I'm doing it."

Two Wayne County Health Department officials said the order should be made to every resident in the park.

"It sounds like they have a legitimate gripe, but we can't do anything about it," said Bruce Davis, county health inspector. "People could have it piled up and coming out of their cupboards, but as long as it's outside the home that's a different story."

He suggested residents take their complaint to local government officials.

But Township Trustee Noah Folks said the county health department is the first agency to lodge complaints, contrary to Davis' contention.

"I'm tired of seeing people tossed around like ping-pong balls," Folks said. "If everyone starts taking their garbage to the township hall trash bin, I'm sure we can get the attention of the county health department."

Folks, upon receiving complaints from park residents, told residents to dispose of their trash daily at the township hall.

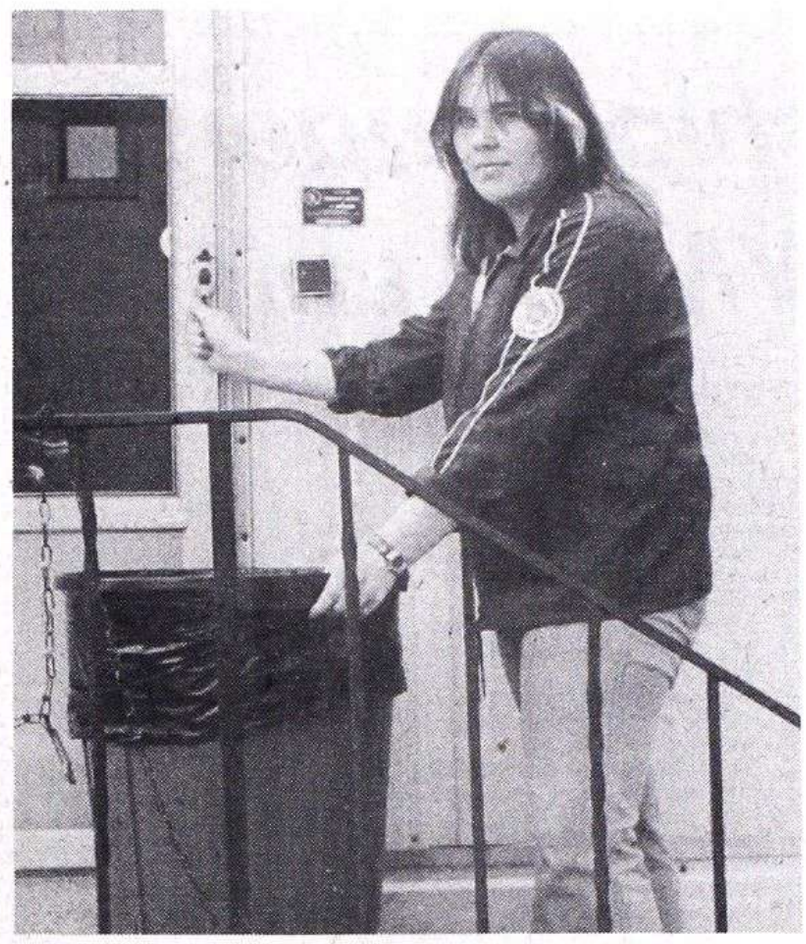
"I thought it would be an effective way to grab their (health officials) attention. And it's better than letting people dump it on the sides of the roads, which is the normal reaction of mad people," he said.

Park residents also are concerned about the lack of uniformity of park rules, as well alleged inconsistencies in enforcement.

For example, Mrs. Heath has not paid rent for her 100-pound sheepdog since moving into the park two years ago. Pets apparently are permitted, since there is no rule prohibiting pets.

Next door, Mrs. Jones was paying $10 a month extra for her less-than-10-pound beagle puppy, until the park owner ordered the beagle out of the park.

Futernick refused comment.



In we go

Carla Heath is not pleased with having to keep her trash inside her mobile home seven days a week. "It's a long wait to Thursday pick-up," said Mrs. Heath a Sumpter Township resident living in the Holiday Woods Mobile Home Park, owned by Sheldon Futernick. "But where else can I go?" Township Trustee Noah Folks suggested residents transport their garbage to the township hall's trash bin in protest of the rule change initiated by park manager Sue Zacharuk.

CORN Facts & Fancies

Made first in 1922 from corncobs and cornstalks, cornstone is still used as a structural material because it's harder and stronger than any natural wood.

In the summer of 1622, several members of the Plymouth Colony were whipped in public—for picking and eating corn before it was ripe.

* * *

You might want to try this old South Carolinian health remedy some day: Warts will go away if you take a kernel of corn for each wart—and throw them over your left shoulder into a river.

Metro to add ticket building

A "spacious, well-lighted, comfortable" ticketing building for public ground transportation will be under construction soon at Detroit Metropolitan-Wayne County Airport in Romulus.

The building, a long-sought facility, will be located in front of the South Terminal, on the lower roadway, beneath the upper level bridge-roadway where departing passengers arrive and unload.

The contract award was to McCarthy & Smith Inc., a Detroit general contractor, and was the second time the project had been bid.

Joseph M. Herron, Wayne County Road Commission board chairman, said the award, made March 22 was for $386,000. An earlier bid opening was rejected last August.

"When the ticketing building is completed (by the end of the year) travelers who use buses, limousines, or taxis will no longer have to wait at the curb or inside the terminal building," Herron said.

Plans call for travelers to enter the building, purchase their tickets and take seats to await their form of transportation. No private vehicles will be permitted in the area.

In addition to awarding the transportation building award, vice-chairman Freddie G. Burton noted that the airport recently opened a new 1,400-vehicle public parking lot along the airport's East Service Drive.

"The board is attempting to keep up with the rising demand of the traveling public, and we're working on a new program that will nearly double our parking facilities in the next few years," Burton said.

DO SURVIVORS OF A SUDDEN-DEATH FEEL THE "STAGES OF DEATH"?
In her book, On Death and Dying, Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross indicates that the acceptance of any death usually goes through these stages: shock and denial; great anger and trying to place blame; a brief period of bargaining followed by a long and often deep depression; then, hopefully, ultimate acceptance of the facts of life—and death.
Dr. Kubler-Ross further states that the survivors of sudden-death victims must go through the same stages of grief as for survivors of those whose death comes slowly.
Reading about and becoming better acquainted with the stages of grief can provide insights for thoughtful contemplation. Reaching a point of understanding how others have had to cope with similar situations can provide strength and consolation at the time of death of a loved one.
We have quite a few books and lists of others which may assist you in coping with your loss of loved ones. We stand ready to help you as best we can. Remember, your needs are our concerns.

VA has some advice on direct depositing

Some problems involving direct deposit of Veterans Administration compensation and pension checks can be avoided by following a few simple procedures, according to Va regional office director Frank J. Kilcullen.

The direct deposit of electronic funds transfer system allows Va beneficiaries to have compensation and pension checks entered in a checking or savings account at the financial institution of their choice.

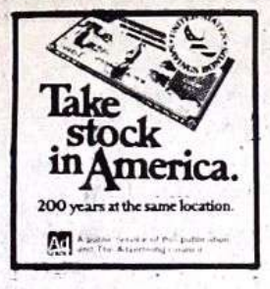
"Following application, beneficiaries should allow approximately 90 days for direct deposit to take effect," Kilcullen explained. "During this time the checks will continue to go to the current address."

If a person wishes to cancel direct deposit at any time, VA should be notified either by mail or phone. Toll-free numbers are available in all 50 states. Consult community telephone directories or local information operators.

A change of address card from the post office will not suffice to cancel direct deposit, Kilcullen said.

Following the notification to cancel, Va beneficiaries should keep their bank account open until the check is received at the new address. If a person wishes to change banks, a standard form from the new bank is all that is required.

"Here again, it is important to keep the account open at the old bank until the first payment is received at the new bank," Kilcullen emphasized.



"There's nothing I can do. I'm just one person."

Do you really think God will accept that?

Maybe you can't help people all by yourself. Then join with others at your local synagogue or church. You'll find lots of things to do. Example: in Montana, one congregation was disturbed by the lack of adequate housing for senior citizens. Because of its concern, today senior citizens have a new, non-profit place to live. The God we worship expects us to help all our neighbors.

Start treating your brothers and sisters like brothers and sisters.

Canton Township ponders pulling out of YMCA unit

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Some disgruntled Canton Township officials are exploring the feasibility of Canton becoming a direct recipient of the federal government's Title III free homechore assistance program.

To become a direct recipient, Canton must convince the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) that grant monies are being "improperly handled" by the current recipient, the Canton-Northville-Plymouth (CNP) YMCA.

Canton officials said they are not convinced the $21,000 federal grant is being used to service as many seniors as possible by Janet Luce, YMCA coordinator of the homechore service. The service area includes Canton, Plymouth, Northville, Northville and Plymouth townships.

The Canton Eagle learned that the YMCA's administrative costs for homechore service are more than half of the total grant monies appropriated.

It has also been learned that the service has only been provided to half of Canton Township, stopping at Ford Road. More than half of Canton's senior population is south of Ford Road.

Records of the YMCA, revealed that only 26 persons were serviced by the program in Canton in 1978, while more than 300 persons were serviced in Plymouth.

Because of these recent findings, the State Office of Aging Department began investigating the matter.

However, last week Jackie Borden, public information officer for the state Office of Aging Department, said the investigation had been turned over to the AAA for further investigation.

AAA officials refused to comment on the matter.

In the meantime, Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert is drafting a resolution to present to the AAA requesting they make Canton a direct recipient of the federal grant, bypassing the YMCA.

Culbert is also discussing the matter with Fred Farris, director of the AAA.

"I think once the ivestigation is completed it will show that clearly some other agency or unit of government should be operating the program," said Culbert.

He said Canton would be more capable of determining needs of its senior population.

"I'm sure we could have more than 26 persons serviced," said Culbert.

There are more than 2,500 seniors residing in Canton, according to township records.

The homechore service consists of housecleaning assistance for eligible seniors over the age of 60. Mrs. Luce could not produce statistics on how often services are rendered and the nature of the service, when contacted by the Canton Eagle.

In addition, her population figures are inaccurate, according to officials from the U.S. Social Security Department.

Mrs. Luce claims, 1978 social security population records show 10,692 qualifying seniors living in her service area, while Social Security officials said their most recent 1977 file lists 7,163 persons.

While Mrs. Luce claims Plymouth has 4,211 seniors, Plymouth Township with 3,182, Northville 2,093, Northville Township 347 and Canton with 859 seniors, those figures were disputed by each community.

Individual community records show Plymouth with 1,438 seniors, Plymouth Township 1,650, Northville 800, Northville Township 400, and Canton with more than 2,500 seniors.

More than 71 percent of the homechore service is concentrated in Plymouth, with Canton receiving less than 6 percent of the service.

Because of funding difficulties resulting from Mrs. Luce's administrative costs exceeding federal guidelines, some seniors were without service for more than four months last year, Mrs. Luce admitted.

Some seniors had services cut, other service requests were denied.

And some seniors were actually charged for the service, which according to the federal officials is in violation of the contract.

Mrs. Luce, however, said the homechore workers received the pay, not the YMCA personnel.

Less than six weeks ago federal officials told this newspaper that local administrative costs are "usually" kept to a maximum of 15-percent of the total grant received.

But Mrs. Luce said she wasn't instructed to keep her administrative costs within one-third of the total grant monies appropriated, until last October.

Trustee Robert Greenstein said he supports Canton becoming a direct grant recipient.

"But even if we can't get that, I strongly believe we have the right to ask her questions, and get some logical answers," Greenstein said, "She's abusing her position by not relasing more information to us regarding the service."

In recent weeks Mrs. Luce asked Canton for a $720 donation to keep the program operating smoothly, but withdrew her request when Canton asked her to submit a monthly progress report.

What's for lunch?

Menu entrees of oven-fried chicken, Italian spaghetti with meat sauce and turkey with dressing will be served in the cafeterias of the Van Buren public schools next week.

In the family-style luncheon program at Savage, Quirk and West Willow schools, the menu Monday will be sloppy joes, french fries, cole slaw, peaches and pineapple, chilly things and milk, while Tuesday students will be dining on oven-fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce, buttered beets, corn, white or wheat bread and butter, fruit cocktail, Jell-O and milk.

Next Wednesday the menu will be pizza, tossed salads with French dressing, mixed fruit and pears, cake and milk, with a lineup of roast turkey and dressing, brown or white rice with gravy, cranberry sauce, yam patties, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, white or wheat bread and butter, Jell-O and milk slated for next Thursday.

Cafeterias in all schools will be closed next Friday (April 13) through April 20 for the Easter recess.

In the other elementary schools, the menu Monday will be chili with crackers, burritos, tostadas, corn with red and green peppers, chilly things and milk, followed by a lineup of soup and crackers, sloppy joes on buns, pudding, fruit and milk on Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving pizza, juice, salad, vegetable or cole slaw, cookies and milk, while rounding out the week will be a menu of juice, roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes with gravy, cranberry sauce, vegetable, cake and milk.

In the Junior and senior high schools the menu Monday will be pizza or chili and cheeseburgers on buns, juice, tossed salads, corn, french fries, milk or a cold drink, while slated for Tuesday is a menu of barbequed beef on buns or Coney Island foot-longs, tossed salads, peaches, french fries, fruit Jell-O, cobbler, milk or a cold drink.

Next Wednesday the bill of fare will be Italian spaghetti with meat sauce or tostadas and burritos, soup and crackers, green beans, french fries, pineapple, hot garlic bread, milk or a cold drink.

Topping off the week will be a menu of chili dogs on buns or Belleville burgers, carrots, french fries, Jell-O, peaches, cake, milk or a cold drink.

Bill promotes city-college partnership

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District), chairman of the House Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education, has introduced a bill to promote a partnership between urban universities and the cities in tackling the special problems of the nation's urban areas.

More than 50 cosponsors joined Congressman Ford in introducing the bill, which was the subject of five hearings in Washington, Birmingham, Detroit, San Francisco, and Wichita, Kan., during the 95th Congress.

"The urban university and the metropolitan area in which it is located have a natural affiliation, which gives the university the unique opportunity to provide research and services to aid and cooperate with the city in reaching solutions to problems, such as transportation planning, air and water pollution, community relations and police and fire protection," Congressman Ford said.

The Urban Grant University Act is a counterpart to the Land Grant College Acts of the last century, which channel aid to institutions specializing in agricultural and engineering programs, and the Sea Grant Act of 1966, which benefits schools operating programs focusing on ocean and coastal resources.

Congressman Ford explained, "An infusion of federal dollars to help coordinate the expertise of colleges and universities with local resources has the potential to play a major role in meeting our pressing urban needs."

The Urban Grant University Act will be considered by the Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education in conjunction with the re-authorization of the Higher Education Act during the 96th Congress.

Secret Witness award

Councilman Willie Johnson (left) and Police Chief Hank Jason are pleased with the results of Inkster's new "Secret Witness" Program. They hold a check for $595 that goes to the first Inkster citizen to earn the reward for information leading to the apprehension and successful prosecution of the persons involved in the slaying of Ruell Knott, an elderly grocery store owner, last Oct. 12. Five hundred dollars was appropriated by City Council and the remainder was donated by concerned businessmen in the area of Knott's Party Store. Councilman Johnson is the main one reponsible for getting the "Secret Witness" Program started and has by highly praised by community officials and leaders. — ANP photo.

Inkster's 1st secret witness gains $695

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster's Secret Witness Reward Program has presented its first check in the amount of $695.

An alert Inkster citizen received the award for supplying police with information that led to the successful prosecution of two defendants in the Oct. 12, 1978 shotgun slaying of Ruell Knott, an elderly grocery store owner.

"This shows how successful law enforcement can be when citizens and police work together in the apprehension and prosecution of criminals," Inkster Police Chief Hank Jason said in presenting the first secret witness check.

Receiving the check on behalf of the secret witness was Councilman Willie Johnson, who was probably the most important one in getting the program started.

"Be sure and give Councilman Johnson all the credit in the world," Jason explained. "He deserves the praise for working hard to get this program started and seeing the fruits of his labor."

Councilman Johnson, who proposed the secret witness program to City Council shortly after the tragic slaying of Knott, was especially happy to see the first reward handed out.

"It gives me great satisfaction to see citizens getting involved in helping to protect their neighbors," Johnson said. "We are hoping that all our citizens will help rid our city of the many dope dens, robberies, sex crimes, fences for stolen goods and wanted criminals still running loose in our city.

"We are calling on all citizens to turn them in by using the Secret Witness Program, Post Office Box 201, Inkster, Mich., 48141. Or they can call the Inkster Police Department, the City Manager, the Mayor or any of the Councilmen," Johnson said.

This is how the program works. Witnesses to any crime should take an ordinary 8½- by 11-inch piece of paper and tear it in half. The witness should write a 6-digit number on each half of the paper, making sure to write the identical number of both halves.

Witnesses should then send one half to Box 201, Inkster, Mich., 48141, or to Chief of Detectives, Inkster Police Dept. They should keep the other half of the torn paper bearing the same 6-digit number in a safe place

If the information results in the capture, the solution of the crime and successful court conviction of the suspect, the Secret Witness will then be eligible for the appropriate reward.

Johnson was so moved by the senseless killing of the likeable Knott who had done so much for his neighborhood kids that he asked Council to offer a $500 reward. The Secret Witness Program grew out of that and Johnson personally visited many businessmen in the Knott Party Store area. They responded by giving various amounts between $5 and $25 to the program.

Under Police Chief Jason's guidelines, the program was set up to give a $1,000 maximum reward. Homicides received the maximum; serious robberies, sex crimes and kidnappings receive $500; and other serious crimes would be included in the Secret Witness Program.

The program was set up after Johnson met with Jason, Lt. Anderson Young and Wally Arrowsmith, who was interim City Manager from Sept. 13, 1978 until Feb. 6, 1979.

Many responses came in from residents after the slaying of the beloved Knott in his small grocery store at 3934 Harrison in the southern section of Inkster. Police investigated many leads until a certain citizen talked with Det. Joseph Pluta. Pluta checked out the information and it led to the apprehension and conviction of the persons involved in the killing.

Johnson and Jason urge all citizens to get involved and help make Inkster a safer place to live. Inkster's Class I crimes have dropped from 4,170 in 1974 to 2,777 in 1978, a significant decrease of 33 percent, Jason pointed out.

Can you survive?

(This is the sixth in a series of 12-articles, entitled Can You Survive, containing survival tips from the U.S. Air Force Survival School at Fairchild Air Force Base, Wash.)

You and a companion have gone hunting in a remote mountainous region. The roads are abandoned logging trails which are covered with drifting snow. The temperature is near zero, and it is snowing. Your 4-wheel-drive land cruiser becomes stuck in a snowbank after traveling over these mountainous roads for some eight hours. All efforts have failed to free it. Darkness is settling, and the temperature has dropped below zero. The wind is now blowing at about 20 miles per hour.

WOULD YOU...

A. Abandon your vehicle and prepare to backpack out of the area.

B. Stay with your vehicle, but begin preparing an emergency camp from available materials.

C. Stay with your vehicle and turn it into temporary lodging until help arrives.

D. Stay with the vehicle until morning, then hike out of the area for help.

TO SURVIVE

Alternative (B) offers the best assurance of a successful survival episode. Staying with your vehicle insures all your available supplies are with you and, provided you stayed with your original travel route, will assist searchers in locating you. By establishing an emergency camp, i.e., shelter and a fire, you will have taken care of your most urgent needs in the face of current weather cnditions. The shelter can be made from materials. A snow cave is an excellent cold weather shelter. Your vehicle is not a desirable shelter. It may expose you to carbon monoxide poisoning while the engine is running, and it becomes cold-soaked very quickly once out of fuel.

(C) would be acceptable for a few hours until your emergency camp is established, but not as a permanent residence until help arrives. Depending upon when you are due back from the trip, you could be stranded for several days before anyone realizes you are in trouble.

(D) would be acceptable provided you and your companion possessed both the physical stamina and the necessary equipment to negotiate the hike out to civilization. Another consideration has to be the distance to help and prevailing weather conditions. All things considered, most people are advised to stay with their vehicles.

(A) is the least acceptable of the alternatives. By abandoning your vehicle at this point in your emergency, you could be at the mercy of the elements. You are better off staying with the vehicle as in alternative (B). (A service of your local Air Force recruiter.)

Nature study area boasts spring 'show'

This spring explore the wonders of nature at the nature study area of Oakwoods Metropark, located five miles northwest of Flat Rock. Both the nature study building and nature trails are open year-around.

The nature center building, overlooking the Huron River, features seasonal exhibits. Naturalists are on duty to answer questions or explain special features. Visitor hours are weekends 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday through Friday 1 to 5 p.m. Mornings are reserved for school groups during the school year, with daily hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the summer.

Four nature trails, from 700 feet to 2 miles in length, are labelled for self-guided hikes. Trail hours are 8 a.m. to dusk.

Programs for the general public are scheduled throughout the year.

For information call 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

Inkster breaks ground for new seniors' complex

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

A ceremonial ground breaking was held last week for a unique 186-unit apartment development at Cherry Hill and Middlebelt roads in Inkster.

The $7-million project of apartments for senior citizens and low and moderate income families is the first in Michigan where the development and financial package was put together by blacks.

"We're very happy that the project has been put together by black people and that it will benefit people of all races," said Horace J. Rodgers, one of the five partners comprising Cherry Hill Limited Dividend Housing Association, owners of the project.

The development being constructed on 7.4 acres on the southwest corner of the major intersection will consist of a 150-unit, 7-story mid-rise building for senior citizens and 36 townhouse units for low- and moderate-income families.

Financing the housing development will be the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA), whose seven-member governing board approved the $7-million mortgage last fall.

Inkster Mayor Terrel M. LeCesne and city councilmen are scheduled to join the developers, plus representatives of MSHDA and other elected officials in the ceremonial shovel-turning event. Actual construction started March 1, Rodgers said.

Cherry Hill Place Apartments will consist of 150 one- and two-bedroom apartments in a seven-story elevator structure for the elderly and 36 two- and three-bedroom townhouses for families.

'It will benefit people of all races . . .'

The housing units are subsidized under the Section 8 rental assistance program and residents must meet income limitations set by the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and MSHDA to qualify.

In addition to Rodgers, the other four partners of Cherry Hill Limited Dividend Housing Association are two other attorneys, Stuart Dunnings, Jr. and Clinton Canady, III and two physicians, Dr. Clinton Canady, Jr. and Dr. Matthies Evans, Jr.

Rodgers said several HUD and MSHDA officials have been invited to today's festivities. Gov. William Milliken has also been asked to attend, along with other county and local elected officials.

Officials from MSHDA who have already said they would try to be on hand include Bella I. Marshall, director of the Detroit field office; Richard K. Helmbrecht, executive director in Lansing; Howard Cross, director of housing operation; and Mandell L. Berman, chairman of the MSHDA board.

Some 150 persons have been invited to attend the symbolic groundbreaking ceremony, Rodgers said.

When Helmbrecht announced approval of the mortgage last fall, he said the development would provide jobs for approximately 213 workers in construction and related industries. The mid-rise for senior citizens is expected to be completed by early summer in 1980 and the townhouses arexpected to be finished by early to qualify for Section 8, low-income housing,, a family of two cannot earn more than $7,950; a family of three cannot exceed $8,950 and a family of four cannot earn more than $9,950.

To qualify for Section 8, regular income, a family of one cannot earn more than $11,150; family of two cannot exceed $12,750; family of three cannot earn more than $14,350 and a family of four cannot have an annual income of more than $154,900.

Cherry Hill Place Apartments is the second MSHDA-financed development for Inkster. Whitney Young Plaza, which has 138 units for low-income families with a mortgage value of $1.9-million, also is financed by MSHDA.

Law blasts plan to hike state funds

Any attempt to increase this year's state revenues, simply because this is the "base year" for the Headlee tax limitation amendment, would be contrary to wishes of the voters, according to Robert Law.

Law, state representative of the 16th District representing part of Westland and Livonia, co-sponsored a resolution with fellow Republican Jack Kirksey urging the legislature to avoid any ruses that would increase state revenues.

The Headlee Amendment puts a lid on state spending by limiting it to a fixed ratio of the amount the state spends in the 1978-79 fiscal year and the total personal income Michigan residents earned in the 1977 calendar year, Law said. This figure is calculated by dividing the 1978-79 tax revenues by the 1977 personal income of the state.

So the size of the tax revenues this year will matter in calculating the formula. Recent moves in the state legislature to hurry and change the tax structure, from property tax to income tax, seemed designed to increase the base year revenues, Law said. Property tax reform has been discussed for 20 years, but pushing it through in two months for the wrong reasons would be irresponsible, Law said.

The state 1978-79 fiscal year ends September 30.

"The legislature should recognize that the voters of Michigan gaveus a clear mandate when they voted to put a lid on state spending last fall," said Law. "They will be aware of any effort on our part to jack up this year's revenues so we can increase our spending limit from now on.

"The people don't want us to do it, and it would be wrong to try."

The Law and Kirsey resolution was signed by 40 House Republicans and 17 House Democrats, and will be considered by the House Policy Committee.

Law said he thinks that property tax reform is an idea whose time has come, but said that the shift in taxes will have to be studied and debated and acted on in the next fiscal year.

Missing facilities stir bitter feelings

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Some tenants have been waiting for the game-filled clubhouse and swimming pool longer than others.

But most agree they are bitter and feel cheated everytime they look out their window at the void-looking space.

There are more than 400 tenants in the Holiday Estates Mobile Home Park in Canton Township, and many contend they are victims of false advertising by mobile home dealer Sheldon Futernick. Futernick, president of Village of Homes Mobile Home Sales Inc., sold many of the tenants their mobile homes promising the prospective tenants both in writing and verbally that a recreational facility and swimming pool would soon be constructed.

The brochure handed out at Village of Home's Westland office stated the facilities are built for the tenants "enjoyment and convenience."

Park rules and regulations since 1973 have included "do's" and "don'ts" pertaining to clubhouse and swimming pool activity.

Futernick, also the mobile home park owner, continues to promise residents the clubhouse and swimming pool, but never qualifys his promise with a specific date.

'Granted, we aren't being denied essential ...'

More than a dozen residents who attended a park meeting last summer when Futernick appeared heard him make the promise publicly.

Some residents feel his promise to build is about as empty as the reserved recreation space in the center of the park. Others are angered enough to take Futernick to court hoping to force him to start, and complete construction.

"Granted, we aren't being denied essentials like heat water and electricity, which we pay rent for of course anyway," said tenant Marie Mund.

"But it sure looked inviting when we saw it on the literature," said Mrs. Mund one of the first residents to locate in the 6-year-old park.

Bruce Phillips, director of the township's ordinance department, said the township hasn't a contract with Futernick to force him to live up to his promise to tenants.

"I think what he is doing to those people is wrong. It's unfair, but he is not violating any site plan submitted to the township," said Phillips.

According to the planning department Futernick's original site plan submitted to the planning commission in April of 1973 included a clubhouse and swimming pool. But by ordinance Futernick was not obligated to specify when the recreational facility would be constructed, nor quality of the facility.

In 1977, Futernick submitted another site plan to the building department for both the clubhouse and swimming pool. Again a time guideline of construction's start and complete was not mentioned, nor was it required.

Building officials said Futernick's site plan need only meet minimum building and safety codes, which in 1977 the site plan did not.

Phillips said township officials have recently met with Futernick to arrive at an agreement.

There is a tentative understanding that Futernick will begin construction sometime this summer, said Phillips.

"If he doesn't the township will consider taking the necessary legal action to force him," he said.

But Robert Myers, president of the Michigan Mobile Home Owners Association, said Futernick told him he is considering locking two mobile homes together as a temporary facility to appease tenants.

"I don't think that's living up his promise either," said Myers.

Futernick refused comment.

If the township cannot resolve the matter, Myers said his association will file a class-action suit on behalf of the park tenants against Futernick. He said the association will argue false advertising and breach of implied promise.

While Myers said he hopes to see the local government take action, the township attorney said there is some doubt about the township's legal jurisdiction in a "private enterprise" matter.

Currently subdivision planned unit development agreements mandate the developer the start of construction on a recreation facility by a certain date.

But that agreement only applys to singe-family homes, said township officials.

No such ordinance is on record pertaining to mobile home parks, and even if one were drafted and adopted tomorrow, it would only apply to future cases.

There is one mobile home site in Canton remaining to be developed, according to the township zoning text.

Two officials from the Better Business Bureau said tenants must prove in court that they relied on the brochures advertisements when making their purchase decision.

"That'll be easy to do," Myers said, "That's the first thing many tenants look at when considering living in a park. Who can deny that they weren't influenced by pretty pictured of a heated swimming pool."

Still waiting

It's just a vacant lot with mud and debri. But residents of Holiday Estates Mobile Home Park would like to see the center of their park turned into a recreational clubhouse and adjoining swimming pool as promised by park owner Sheldon Futernick. Today, without the clubhouse, residents say they feel "pretty silly" looking for recreational action at the park's center area. Residents said the only use they have for the center area is mailing letters at nearby mailboxes. Spokespersons for the more than 400 tenants said they are establishing a legal defense fund to take Futernick to court in hopes of forcing the park owner to build the recreational facilities.

Introducing the CP-70
Yamaha's new CP-70 is full 73 keys electric grand piano that offers both the sound and touch characteristics of an acoustical instrument.
Until now, the touring piano player has had to sit down to an unfamiliar instrument every time he has performed. The action, the sound of the borrowed piano was always new and uncertain. Also, many studios, clubs and stages didn't have room for a full-size grand. Moreover, when the acoustic piano had to be amplified, it was extremely difficult, if not impossible, to retain the true sound.
But Yamaha has changed all that.
The exciting new Electric CP-70 has the sound and feel of a full-size grand piano. Yet its size and weight have been greatly reduced, making it easy to take it anywhere. Compact, sturdy and loaded with versatility, the Electric Grand combines the artistry of musical craftsmanship with the technical skills of electronic engineering.
Electronics
The Electric Grand was made to be amplified. To help capture its true acoustically created sound, Yamaha installed 70 independent piezoelectric pickups for the entire keyboard. The electronics section has permanently mounted pickup preamps, so you never have to worry about installation. You can get just the sound you want by using the three tone controls (BASS, MIDDLE, TREBLE). For quickly returning to "flat" response, the tone controls are detented in the center position. There is even a special tremolo with two out-of-phase outputs, so you can get rotary effects from a pair of speaker systems. All this, yet the CP-70 Electric Grand is an acoustic piano.

Transit questionnaire

ANP mini-survey

Yesterday, SEMTA's Board of Directors met to announce their recently agreed upon solution for improving and up-dating existing Tri-County transit systems.

For more than a year, SEMTA's board has been split along political lines over Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's demands for inclusion of a subway in any final plans for the transit system.

While that question now seems to be resolved, we thought we would survey a segment of this area's population to find out what they think of mass transit, and more particularly, how they feel about riding buses, the back-bone of any transit system.

Some of the questions we asked the 60 people included: Why do you take a bus? How far do you travel on it? Do you enjoy riding the bus? When is the last time you rode a bus? And would you ride the bus more often if it were more convenient?

All of those surveyed were employees of Associated Newspapers, and therefore represent essentially a Western Wayne County view of bus service and systems.

Of those who responded to the survey, it was interesting to note that 18 percent had never ridden a bus. Of that 18 percent, only 20 percent indicated they would ride a bus, even if it were more convenient.

When asked if they rode a bus for convenience or necessity, 61 percent responded that they took the bus only because it was necessary, 14 percent answered that the bus was more convenient, and 7 percent used buses for both convenience and necessity.

When asked when they last rode a bus, 57 percent responded that it had been more than five years ago, 35 percent rode a bus last year, and only 9 percent had used a bus in the last month.

An even split developed on the question of whether the person would use the bus more often if it were more convenient. 50 percent said yes and 50 percent said no.

The average trip for this survey group, was split between shopping and work, and the ride covered from 2-5 miles.

But probably the most important question was: Do you enjoy riding on a bus?

Surprisingly, 48 percent responded yes and only 52 percent responded no.

What does it all mean?

Well your guess is probably as good as ours, but here is ours.

Since our survey group consisted primarily of long-time residents of Western Wayne County, results would most probably be affected by this area's low-user-rate for bus transportation.

Because bus service was generally not as available to most in this group, the inclination to use it was low, thus the 61 percent who said they used the bus only when necessary.

Perhaps the real meaning of this survey is tied directly to the surveyed person's definition of the word convenient.

It appears to us that those surveyed seemed to feel that bus service was a real alternative only when that service created little or no inconvenience.

It is probably safe to assume that most would use the bus if it were to pick you up at your door and deposit you at your destination. But if utilizing bus service requires either a considerable walk or some other means to get to the bus, fewer people opted for the buses.

After everything else has been said, it appears that our ANP Mini-Survey only reaffirmed one of the basic components of human nature, self-indulgence.

If the family car is 25 feet away in the garage, and the nearest transit bus stop is 100 feet away, the auto will most likely be chosen.

Our conclusion is that most people will not voluntarily take a bus unless there is strong motivation for that decision.

Gasoline at $1 a gallon, or gasoline rationing, appear to be the only possible available incentives which might justify the high costs of mass transit.

That is our guess, what is yours?

V.B. millage election

The low-keyed approach by the Van Buren school system and the citizens advisory committee toward the upcoming vote on 16.66 mills next Monday is puzzling.

Elections have always been viewed as the "democratic" way that Americans can express how they feel toward issues and candidates.

But, the effort by those working for passage of all five separate millage proposals smacks of a deliberate ploy - publicize the millage election to those residents known to be for it, but leave those believed against it in the dark.

This course of action would seem the antithesis of democracy, amounting to a direct stifling of the public's right to know.

Possibly, those residents of the Van Buren school district who profess to want the best education for their children would do well to "educate" all members of the general public when election time comes up on millage proposals amounting to hundreds of thousands, even millions of dollars of taxpayer money.

In any event, the several-month campaign usually associated with school millage elections and which push hard for their passage, is conspicuous by its absence in the Belleville-Van Buren Township community this year.

Nuclear reactions: 'Supercritical'

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

The alarm pierced the silent room and instantly, the scramble to exit the building began.

At the same moment, sophisticated electronic equipment located in the Nuclear Reactor's control room began its automatic search for the problem which had signaled the reactor shutdown.

Within seconds, operating personnel were provided with a computer print-out of the problem and a detailed description of the remedy.

Within minutes, and before personnel could evacuate the building, the alarm was silenced and the reactor rested safely at the bottom of its 27 foot pool of water.

There would be no re-enactment of the Phoenix consuming itself by fire, today. In fact, at the University of Michigan's Phoenix Memorial Laboratory which houses the Ford Nuclear Reactor, such an event would be impossible. But even that knowledge, could not still the instinctive reaction to flee which captured the mind of the young engineer, and forced his legs into action.

So powerful is man's fear of the unknown!

That date, almost exactly 18-years-ago, witnessed my first encounter with the dreaded unknown — nuclear radiation.

I was employed with the Bendix Corporation and they held a contract which required the irradiation of electronic components.

Several times each day, I would drive to the Phoenix lab and monitor the progress of experiments located in ports around the base of the reactor pool.

Each visit to the lab required subjecting one's self to the probing of electronic equipment that would signal the presence of unusual levels of radiation on shoes, hands, or clothing, prior to entering the reactor building.

Once inside, except for piles of lead bricks, and assorted electronic equipment, you would not have realized you were in an area designed to wrest from nature, the secrets of nuclear energy.

I still recall the quiet foreboding my first visit to the reactor induced.

The building was spotlessly clean and appeared deserted. Roped off areas with 'Danger' signs indicating unusual radiation levels, rattled the nerves.

In the back wall of the room were shielded ports for long-term storage of irradiated materials. The silence, the sterility, the warning signs, and fear of the unknown all contributed to an overpowering awareness of potential peril.

The months I was to work within the walls of the reactor building, gradually brought a growing confidence in both the men charged with operating the facility, and their machines.

But the people living in the shadow of Three Island Nuclear Power station in Middletown, have neither the time or inclination, now, to wait.

And who is to blame?

Unfortunately, most probably, the news media.

In the natural rush to file a story on the events at Middletown, it seems that many of the reporters on the scene were over their heads.

Lacking the necessary background to comprehend exactly what had happened, reporters proceeded to file stories which, even today, do not accurately present the situation at the crippled power plant.

First operator error was reported, then denied. Now operator error is blamed in at least six separate incidents. What is the real story?

Based on my admittedly limited experience, I have concluded that I can not know the answer. But I do know, that a reactor, much like a 747 aircraft, is not operated by the seat-of-your-pants.

It is operated by the book. Underline book.

Like the pilot of the 747, a detailed check-list is necessary to operate a reactor. When an emergency develops, operators look in the book. They do not simply start to throw switches on the basis of a hunch.

And because it is in the book, an explanation of exactly what occurred at Middletown is available to anyone who cares to listen.

Opponents of nuclear energy have now seized on the incident to attract new support. Politicians are using the accident to play to the crowds, and now, even Ralph Nadar hopes to use Three Island to rejuvenate his ailing career.

Perhaps, the 'doomsdayers' and 'hucksters' could better serve the country by listening now, instead of talking.

It would be foolish to scrap nuclear power as a potential solution for our nation's energy shortage, if Three Island is an isolated correctable incident. On the other hand, it would be equally foolish to continue creating these power plants, if indeed, nuclear energy cannot be safely handled with current technology.

But it would be even more foolish to attempt a decision on this important question while we are not yet in possession of all the information.

The state's educational contribution

By THOMAS H. BROWN
State Representative
37th District

The higher education appropriations for fiscal 1978-79 is $748.6 million. This includes $575.5 million for the state's 15 public, four-year colleges and universities, $122 million for the 29 community and junior colleges, and $37 million for financial aid for students.

The appropriations for the colleges and universities are figured on the basis of a funding formula. This formula approach gives a certain number of dollars to cover the cost per student credit hour plus money for specific costs such as energy conservation programs, administrative costs or building maintenance. The formulas have been developed over a period of several years and are gradually being put fully into place.

The state's colleges and universities also receive varying proportions of their budgets from federal funds. These vary from year to year depending on the type of funds, such as those for research or building projects. The community colleges receive a sizable proportion of their budgets from local tax dollars raised through millages. Tuition from students pays about 30 to 35 percent of the cost for each credit hour.

In addition to grants for public colleges and universities, approximately one and one-half percent of the total higher education budget goes to help Michigan students attend private colleges and universities in Michigan. This money helps fund 1,811 associate degrees, more than 5,000 baccalaureate and masters degrees, 82 dental degrees, 571 law degrees and 297 allied health degrees.

State appropriations for K-12 education totaled an estimated $1,897.6 million for 1978-79. Of this amount, about $19.9 million came from federal funding included in the State School Aid Act, about $963.7 million came from the constitutionally earmarked State School Aid Fund, and the remaining $914 million came from the state's general fund.

The largest portion of the appropriation, fully $1,069.7 million, was paid out to local and intermediate districts in basic membership or "formula" aid. $426.9 million went for retirement and social security funding for school employees. The $401 million balance was allocated for a variety of special or "categorical" aids, such as funding of added-costs for special education for the handicapped, similar funding for vocational education, reimbursement of transportation costs, added funding for compensatory education for underachievers, etc.

The 1978-79 membership aid formula guaranteed every school district a combined state-local amount per pupil equal to $274, plus $40 for each mill of operating tax levied in the district up to 30 mills. This meant that every district levying 30 mills was guaranteed $1,474 in basic per-pupil revenue. If such a district received $900 locally from its levy, state formula aid was $574. If such a district received only $450 locally, formula aid was $1,024. In this manner, residents of different school districts, when paying the same school taxes on homes of comparable value, were guaranteed that the same amount of basic revenue would be available for the education of their children.

Local and intermediate school district property taxes brought about $2,283.5 million for K-12 education, but the state rebated about $202 million of this amount to individual taxpayers under its "Circuit-breaker" program for relieving excess property taxes.

When all of the factors are considered, it can be estimated in summary that the public schools received about 5 percent of their support from federal funds, about 47.5 percent from property taxes and a similar 47.5 percent from all forms of state funding.

Reader laments possible theater closing

Editor:

I'm writing in regard to the State Theatre. I'm sure you are well aware of the change-over to live Entertainment.

I had wanted to go quite a few times to see performers there. Finally, Sunday morning I noticed that Chubby Checker was appearing that evening. I figured it was too late to get tickets but called just on a slim chance, and much to my amazement, they still had choice seats! I know people differ in taste as far as entertainers go, but to be able to get those tickets on the same day as the show!

That evening, as I entered the theatre there was a friendly atmosphere I haven't ever encounered before. The people who worked there were courteous and pleasant. The owner of the show greeted people as they came into the lobby. The usher was prompt and friendly as he showed you to your seat.

As a matter of fact, the entertainers were quite friendly and obliging to the audience. All in all I can't remember when I had such a grand time, plus appreciating the fact that the owner, and help, at State Theatre made me feel special and completely relaxed.

I have finally found a place that is a real pleasure to go to.

Finally I have found a place of entertainment not only for myself, but also my children and my teenagers that is close to home and much to my liking. Now I learn, to my displeasure, that they may have to close because of lack of customers! The reason, I feel, is because there is not enough advertisement and not many people know about it. I'm sure once people notice it is live entertainment they would go to the shows and once that happened it could be heard of by word of mouth.

Since you are a community newspaper, is it possible for you to do a write-up on the State and put it in all six of your papers that are published under Associated, Inc.

I do hope that there is something you can do for the Theatre. It's really hard to find a Theatre like State that is close to home, reasonable rates, something for everyone, friendly, and you don't have to fight traffic to get to it like Dearborn or Detroit.

Thank you for reading this. I really believe we'd lose a good thing if State has to close.

Tooting their horns

EDITOR:

On Saturday March 10th the Belleville High School Bands hosted the MSBOA Junior High District Band Festival in the High School auditorium. A total of eighteen bands participated in the eventful day.

We would like to acknowledge how grateful we are to Mr. Dennis Miller and his band students who prepared and accommodated the bands, their directors and the judges. They spent long hours moving chairs and other equipment for this exciting exchange of musicianship.

The Belleville Band Boosters handled the food service in the cafeteria throughout the day offering a variety of quick foods pleasing the young musicians in attendance.

We are also very grateful to Dave Baronian of our cafeteria staff for his invaluable assistance in making our approach to such a mammoth undertaking a more positive and relaxing venture.

Since this event has never been held at Belleville — nor anything to compare with it in size — we of Band Boosters set about making food preparations for the visiting bands. Mr. Baronian's knowledge in this area was highly valuable and of tremendous assistance to us. We felt you should be aware of our appreciation.

Grandma's gift

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

A few weeks ago I was asked to help judge the National Forensic League meets. As I watched those young people, so eager, so talented and so anxious to reach first place, I was carried back in time to when I was a National Forensic Leaguer, and how it was in 1934.

It had all come together in my grandmother's huge old-fashioned kitchen where we had all been called because of her illness. My mother, who had healing hands, had moved her entire family to Grandma's, fixed up the room right off the kitchen for Grandma's sick room, and prepared to minister to her mother.

I was in Dramatics in high school and I had won our local high school contest and was going to District. I had worked on that reading, not only worked on presenting it, but I had written it right from scratch.

I would sit at the big round kitchen table, with the brilliant white light hanging low over my head, and I would write. When I had written a particular line I liked I would turn in my chair and call across the room into Grandma's room.

"Want to hear it?" I would shout. And she, with her long thick dark hair, tucked into her frilly white night cap, would smile and say, "Shoot!"

With all of the drama in my heart I would read it to her, and she would lie back on her pillows, smiling and occasionally chuckling.

"It's good," she would say, and I would be flattered, for my grandmother was not only my beloved grandmother, but she had been a school teacher, and she should know what was good and what wasn't.

And so I had won in our town, and it was time to go to District. And it was the depression, and there was no money for a new dress.

My grandmother told me to pray, and my mother told me I looked beautiful in anything, and it wasn't the dress the judges would be looking at, anyway, was it?

But I NEEDED a new dress.

That was when Grandma called me into her room and pulled me down and whispered that if I would look in the second drawer of her bureau, I would find a tin box, and for me to bring it to her.

The tin box was full of money. Pennies, nickels and dimes. Carefully she pulled herself up on her pillow and with trembling figers she counted out two dollars, which she pressed into my hand.

"Here," she whispered. "I told you God would answer your prayer." She smiled at me and patted my clasped fist as she leaned exhausted against her pillow. Counting out that two dollars had taken all of her strength.

The dress was beautiful. My mother had found the material on sale and lovingly and carefully she cut it out and made it for me, under Grandma's watchful eyes.

The morning of the Districts I dressed carefully and whirled into Grandma's room.

"You are beautiful, honey," she whispered. "Now go and win, and when you come home tonight you may gave your reading to me for my nightcap." And if her smile was slower I didn't notice it. Neither did I notice the pallor of her skin.

I won! In my beautiful homemade dress and with my homemade reading, I won. I rushed home and raced into my grandmother's room, not noticing, nor caring, that all of my aunts and uncles were huddled around the kitchen stove.

"Grandma," I shrieked. "I won, I won!"

Her eyes opened and she motioned me to her side.

"Give it for me," she whispered. "Ollie fix the light so I can see her."

"Mother," my Uncle Ollie ventured. "I don't think you should tax your strength..."

"Fix the light," she said.

I gave my reading with all of the fervor and gusto of my sixteen years. Standing there in my two dollar dress I felt that I could conquer the world for my grandmother. And when I finished she laughed until the tears rolled down her cheeks.

"Oh, baby," she said. "God sent you to give Joy!" And she closed her eyes.

That night they took her to the hosital, and she never came home.

On the Brighter Side

'Fountain of youth'

By JIM BRADLEY

By golly, Bob Millar has found it and I'm still searching.

The Fountain of Youth, I mean.

I knew I hadn't seen the ministerial mortician in quite some time but I didn't know he had found the life-perpetuating spring that Ponce de Leon tried to locate in Florida.

For the uninitiated, Bob is a Congregational minister in Wayne and also works for Lents Funeral Home full time. I've known him for many years. Why, I've even seen his hair turn to tinges of gray with the passing of years.

I'm not exactly sure just how old Bob is, but he must be approaching 50. (But I don't know from which side). At least I thought he was fifty-ish — but now I'm not so sure after seeing last week's Wayne Eagle.

You see, Bob won the "Outstanding Citizens' Award" from the Wayne Civitan Club for 1979 and there was a write-up about the merry-making minister on Page 1. That was fine, but next to the story was a picture that looked like it might have been pilfered from his baby book. It was that young looking.

I figured that someone had gone to our newspaper morgue (a very appropriate word in this case), to dig out a photo of Mr. Millar, who is also a licensed Congregational preacher as well as a licensed funeral director.

As one that is easiy impressed by prominent people, I was humorously impressed by this humorous picture of a very humorous person.

Bob has been known for eons of time for his fantastic sense of humor. (Some have said if he didn't have a sense of humor, he'd have no sense at all — and I believe it!)

Okay, so I'll admit I'm not sure whether last week's picture was a recent one. Some would say it was taken at least 15 to 20 years ago. But I'm not convinced that the humorous Scottish (or is it Scotch?) Millar hasn't joked his way into an accidental discovery of the Fountain of Youth.

All I know, that would give him the last laugh on me. After all, both of us have been traveling along at about the same age and at about the same rate of depreciation for the past decade. Now, all of a sudden, he pops up looking like he got a face transplant. Now normally that would be a vast improvement in his case. But, honestly, I can't get over how trim and young and handsome he looks in this picture.

I've reprinted a small revised version (in reference to his ministerial pursuit) of the picture that captivated Wayne readers last week. (Captivated — that's another way of saying they rolled on the floor in convulsive laughter).

I won't say that seeing his picture caused me to immediately schedule a doctor's appointment, but it sure was reassuring that I happened to have one already set for last Friday. Giving me even more confidence was the fact that my doctor is Joseph Sadzikowski, recently named Chief of Staff at PCHA's Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

Now Dr. "Sadz" has been my physician sice 1964 at Garden City Medical Center and he has seen me lose hair and add weight over the past 15 years. There's no fooling him.

When I went in for my annual check-up last week, I actually was afraid Dr. Sadz would scold me for not losing weight since he saw me last spring. To give a slimmer appearance, I got a haircut, wore summer light-weight clothes and went barefoot when I stepped on the scales. I even drew in my cheeks while sucking on a lemon drop.

But alas! The shrewd eye of the experienced physician clearly could see I hadn't found the Fountain of Youth. He probably thought I hand't even found the Fountain of Middle Age. "Charles," he said. (He always calls me Charles because my legal name is Charles James and that's the name he reads off my chart. See, he doesn't know I'm a famous columnist. My fame hasn't reached to Garden City yet).

"You need to lose some weight," he continued. "It's not good for a man of your age to have so much weight." (Of my age? Couldn't he have been a little more sensitive?). However, he did give me a clean bill of health and I once again felt a huge sense of relief.

Why is it that each year I leave the doctor's office I feel like I've once again eluded the Grim Reaper? I guess I expect the doctor to tell me my number is up and it's time to cash in my chips. (Potato chips, that is). I feel that once again I have escaped the long arm of the undertaker.

I still don't know whether Bob Millar's picture last week was recent or not, or whether he's found the Fountain of Youth. But I'll tell you one thing for sure.

I sure hope I run into Ponce de Leon before I'm serviced by the ministerial mortician with the sense of humor.

'Bash a Bureaucrat Day'

By Edwin Feulner

Last year a usually mild mannered attorney here in Washington suggested a new national holiday: Bash A Bureaucrat Day.

Modeled after Canada's controversial annual harp seal kill, BBD would be celebrated each April 16 — the day after our income taxes are due. For one day, open season would be declared on Washington's army of grey bureaucrats, and the folks from places like Durham (NC), Clovis (NM), Ardmore (OK), Wheeling (WV), Cape Girardeau (MO), Eureka (CA), and the thousands of other cities and towns around the country would be free to descend on Washington, baseball bats in hand, and send the bureaucrats a message.

For obvious humanitarian reasons, we'll have to be content with the fact that the BBD idea makes us feel good inside, since the watchdogs of public health of OSHA would probably outlaw such a day on grounds that it would be injurious to someone's health.

A more practical approach to "sending the government a message" probably comes out of Ada, Michigan, where a group of citizens, supported by local businessmen, have started publishing a sprightly new newsletter, The Ada Report.

The editors say the newsletter (Ada Report, P.O. Box 5, Ada, Michigan 49301) represents the views of all those Americans living in Ada, Oklahoma; Ada, Michigan; Ada, West Virginia; Ada, Ohio; Ada, Louisiana; Ada, Minnesota; Ada County, Idaho, and all the other towns in America like Ada.

They are sending their publication, each month, to the President, Members of Congress, and the 50 State Governors.

Ada Report editors say, "Reports written in Washington, by Washington and for Washington are coming out of our ears. We think it's time for the pendulum to swing the other way.

Our logo's the pretzel—a long straight piece of dough that's all bent out of shape, twisted and contorted into a circular maze. We chose this symbol because it's what too much government, maybe originally for the best of reasons, is doing to us today..."

Each month the editors intend to present a government agency or public figure with a "Baked Pretzel Award" — the (edible) baked pretzel symbolizing the bureaucracy's usually twisted logic.

Recent "winners" have included:

• The Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

This is for UMTA's $4.6 billion program to update all rail mass transit facilities so they can be better used by the handicapped —a laudable goal. The only trouble is that a UMTA survey has shown that of the 13,000,000 handicapped or elderly people in the country which the program is intended to assist, only 3,900 of those who live close enough to subways say they would like to use them.

This means the government will spend $1,749,487 for each and every one of these people who might use the subways on occasion. As Ada Report editors suggest: Maybe "the government (should) buy them a limousine and hire a chauffer — it would be much cheaper for the taxpayer including millions of handicapped who pay taxes."

• The U.S. Postal Service. This award was presented for the postal service's incredible level of efficiency.

According to Ada Report, for every first class letter, it now costs mail users eight cents for delivery, and seven cents for storage.

The five-pound baked pretzel was sent to the Postal Service Board of Governors by United Parcel Service, Ada Report editors noted, to "ensure" delivery.

Watch out Washington, the people in Ada are keeping an eye on you.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

300 skaters prepare for ice extravaganza

Westland skaters are going all out this year to put on an ice show extravaganza the likes of which you won't see this side of the Ice Follies.

More than 300 figure skaters from the Westland recreation program will present the '79 Ice Review April 6, 7 and 8 at the Multi-Purpose Arena, located at Jaycee Park on Wildwood, one block north of Ford Road.

The show will run slightly more than two hours and feature full-scale effects with scenery, lights, music and costuming. Skaters as young as 3, and as old as "adult," some with only 12 weeks training and others veterans of productions, will take to the ice to entertain you.

Coordinating the production is ice instructor and director of the Westland figure skating program, Dianne Daniels.

Hobbling through the last two weeks of rehearsals with a broken toe, the 21-year-old skater is irrepressible in her enthusiasm for the show, especially the kids and parents in the program.

Although she choreographed and plotted the numbers, she has gratefully farmed out important costume and prop work to dependable parent volunteer members of the skaters' booster club. Other parents will help with make-up, stage crew work and the innumerable details that require willing hands and time.

You can see the end product of all the work at 7:30 p.m. April 6, 1 p.m. or 7:30 p.m. April 7 and 3 p.m. April 8. All tickets are $2, except for the 1 p.m. April 7 matinee, when children's tickets will be $1.

Tickets are being sold now at the Bailey Recreation Center, located on Ford Road behind city hall, and at the ice arena.

This is the year the ice review comes of age, explained Ms. Daniels, who has been teaching skating for the city for five years. Two years ago, the skating "season" ended with a recital, where parents came to watch the youngsters perform. Last year was the first attempt to make the show into a production for the public. And this year, the show has "improved 500 percent at least" over last year's effort.

One reason for the enthusiasm in and around the arena has been formation of a booster club for the skating program. Initiated by parent Gary Krueger, the club formed and held some fund raisers to get the money to put on this show. Gate receipts will help offset expenses, but the booster club and city also have had to chip in, Ms. Daniels said.

Krueger's wife, Lana, and Kathy Lenhardt, make up the remainder of the ice instruction staff at the arena.

Ms. Daniels has turned over all the prop work to Krueger and his stage crew. The man is called "Mr. Wizard" by the folks working on the show, as he manages to come up with the designs and manpower to create the elaborate props.

He will also round up the crew to operate the lights for the show. Chairmen of the costuming committee are Barb Obert and Mary Frazer. They were in charge of getting patterns and detailing how the costumes were to be made, then parents make them by hand. Costumes have been "in production for about two months. The show itself has been in planning stages for the past year, ever since last year's production was over.

Figure skating is a sport whose time has come in Westland, Ms. Daniels said. When she began teaching her first class five years ago, there were 25 youngsters enrolled. Now that the program has "caught on" the number is around 300.

Before "going public" with the show, the production will be staged in a benefit performance at 7:30 p.m. April 5 free of charge for senior citizens and handicapped persons only. It will be the first time the show is run through its entirety with all props, costumes, make-up, the works.

The individual numbers range from a "hot disco number" to a tribute to the good old days, including some '50s nostalgia, and a little bit of every kind of music to appeal to different tastes. Each number will feature one or more spotlighted skaters, with choruses backing up the soloists.

The performers have been "living, eating and sleeping skating" for the past several weeks. The result? They'll show you that next week.

On with the show

They're all ready to entertain you, along with about 300 of their friends. Westland skaters enrolled in the Recreation Department's figure skating program will present the '79 Ice Review April 6, 7 and 8. The full-scale production will be the result of months of work — with lighting, costumes and make-up, scenery and catchy numbers to interest the whole family. Rehearsing their parts at the arena, located on Wildwood a block north of Ford Road, were Shannon Krueger (from left), 3, Holly Krueger, 6, Patricia Colwell, 10, and Pam Winn, 11. — ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Health insurance association booklet surveys extra plan

The health insurance industry is taking action to correct abuses in the marketing of health insurance to the elderly, according to Robert F. Froehlke, president of the Health Insurance Association of America (HIAA).

Actions by the HIAA, which represents companies writing 85 percent of the nation's health insurance, include:

— Urging all member companies that sell Medicare supplementary policies to review marketing practices and their training programs to assure that the selling of these policies is in the public's best interest.

— Recommending to certain states that they strengthen laws and regulations concerning minimum policy benefits, agent conduct and licensing and policy disclosure requirements.

— Encouraging state insurance departments to enforce vigorously the penalties against marketing abuses provided by state law or regulations.

— Working closely with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners to develop a buyer's guide for Medicare supplementary policies.

— Distributing a "plain language" booklet on the various types of Medicare supplementary policies and how to choose the right kind.

"Overselling supplementary Medicare health insurance policies is not good for the policyholder or the company," Froehlke said. "One major company in this field is seeking out their policyholders to make sure their coverage not only meets their needs but is affordable."

Recommendations aimed at improving trade practices, claim settlements and readability requirements are expected from a study being conducted by the association, he added.

In an effort to help improve people's understanding of supplementary Medicare coverage, the HIAA is distributing a free booklet, entitled "What You Should Know About Health Insurance When You Retire."

"What You Should Know About Health Insurance When You Retire" explains what Medicare covers and does not cover.

Perfect season for All-Area

Petersen, All-American candidate, paces swimmers

BY TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Six high school swimming teams, two of which had undefeated records, made up the core for the 1979 Associated Newspapers' All-Area team.

Included in this year's lineup is also the first area prep swimmer - Paul Petersen - to win a Class A state title. In fact, Petersen claimed two golds at the state finals recently staged at Michigan State University.

Petersen commanded state-wide attention for his sterling efforts at MSU in the 100-yard butterfly, an event he won the state title in for his 52.39 finish, and he became one of only two double winners when he streaked to a 59.40 finish for the 100-yard freestyle.

Paul became the first swimmer in Canton's short history to win state swimming titles and he also was the impetus behind the Chiefs' untarnished 12-0 record, the first undefeated season in any sport at that high school.

Coach Bill Faunce, the recipient of the ANP's "Coach of the Year" award in swimming, points out that his team's success was "due to a lot of hard work on the part of each and every member of this team."

"Once in a lifetime you get a group together who know that goals are reached by a lot of work. This group did the job and we're all proud of them."

Canton is also represented on the All-Area team with its league-winning medley relay team - Bob Cline, Ron Hurley, Dave Tanner and Petersen - which finished 13th in the state, just one spot out of winning a medal. The Chiefs set a school record in that event, a 1:43.2, which equalled the best time this year produced by Belleville's foursome of Norm MacDermid, Joe Thomas, Jeff Bullock and Mike Sherwood who are also being honored as members of the mythical All-Area.

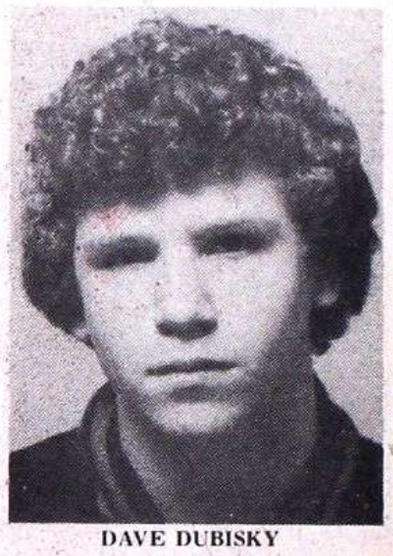
"I'm very proud of all of these fine young men," said Belleville Coach Sam Vicchy who came within one point of sharing the Suburban 8 Conference title. "It has been a pleasure coaching these kids and the All-Area honors cap an outstanding season for them."

In all, Coach Vicchy has 13 members of his team who were given All-Area consideration.

JOE THOMAS, a senior made his initial appearance on All-Area a year ago. He has earned three letters as a member of the Tiger squad. A state qualifier in the medley relay and in the 100-yard breaststroke, Thomas placed in three events in the Western Wayne Invitational, a title that Belleville has monopolized over the past years. The team captain for the last two years, Thomas also placed fifth in the league in the breaststroke with a 1:04.3. He is a solid all-around swimmer and excellent student who will enroll at Central Michigan University this fall.

NORM MacDERMID will be around next year and should be extremely tough in the backstroke and butterfly. He also qualified for the state in the medley relay and won medals in three events at the Western Wayne Invitational: the medley relay, the 100-yard butterfly and the 100 yard backstroke.

CHRIS RENTON provided the leadership that the Tigers needed to compete in a talent-laden conference and against some of the toughest opponents in the state. The 18-year-old senior qualified for the state finals in the 100-yard butterfly, an event he finished 12th and in the 400-yard freestyle. He also placed in three events in the Western Wayne, winning the 100 butterfly. Renton ended his prep swim career with a pair of seconds and a gold at the conference championships. He was the No.1 swimmer in the butterfly(54.5) and was second best in the 200 yard freestyle(1:48.) and finished second with the 400-yard relay team.



DAVE DUBISKY

TIM WEBER

"Chris is a very fierce competitor," noted Vicchy, "and it was a pleasure to have him lead this team."

MIKE SHERWOOD, a good freestyle sprinter, will be back next year to help the Tigers in their quest for the elusive conference crown. The 16-year-old junior made it to the

'Magic', the Bird and Smiley

ANP Sports Editor

It is Sunday. Instead of thinking local sports, my mind wanders to recent history: the NCAA basketball championships. I think: "If I was a general manager of a pro basketball team, would I draft Indiana State's Larry Bird or would I take Earvin 'Magic' Johnson?" A good question, right.

But, then, I say aloud, "Why don't I call the coaches in this area and ask them their preference?" After all, I'm giving them $3 million in play money to fiddle around with.

Someone's at the front door. We leave the sports desk and greet Fred Smiley, former All-State cager from Inkster who also was an All-American from Northwood Institute.

Smiley sits down and sips some coffee. Hey, I think, why don't I try the question on Smiley before telephoning the mob. I had promised Fred Thomann, of Plymouth Salem fame and who was at Utah to watch the semi and final games, that I wanted to discuss the tournament with him and he was going to be the first to field that question.'

'Freddie," I ask, "If you had $3 million and you were general manager of a NBA cage team, who would you draft - Larry Bird or Earvin Johnson?

Freddie dropped the 'y' off his surname and smiled: "General manager of what team?" he asked.

Silence.

Forget it.

And, that's why, Coach Thomann, I didn't call last Sunday.

To compound the fracture, Smiley had the audacity to ask why his Inkster team didn't receive any coverage for winning the state AAU championship.

"After all, how many of your basketball teams in the area have won state titles?" Smiley asked.

None.

"But coaches in the area have the sense," I replied, "to contact the sports desk and supply us with at least some information so that we can fill in the who and whats and where," was the facetious reply.

That kind of evens up the score, doesn't it Freddie.

Anyway, if the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department would get on the ball and either drop off or phone in the scores, there is no reason why Smiley's troops should be neglected.

After all, as the ex-All-American pointed out: "How many cage teams in this area can boast winning a state title?"

Grapplers don't make weight

The All-Area wrestling team has a weight problem.

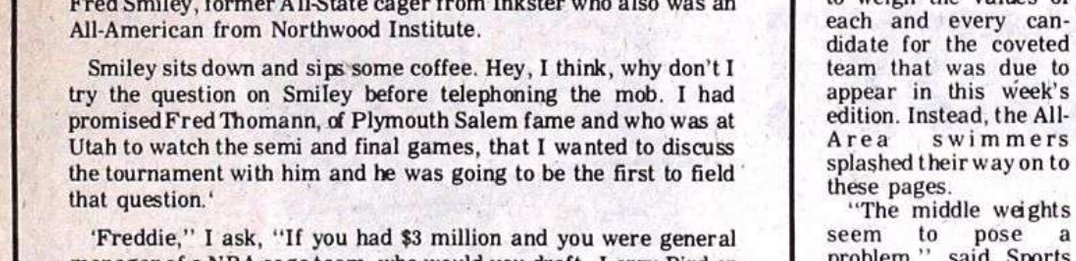
Nothing serious and no diet is scheduled for the Associated Newspapers' annual team.

But the sports staff wants a little more time to weigh the values of each and every candidate for the coveted team that was due to appear in this week's edition. Instead, the All-Area swimmers splashed their way on to these pages.

"The middle weights seem to pose a problem," said Sports Editor Tom Mooradian when questioned about the delay. "We have several outstanding wrestlers, including a state champ and a couple of state runners-up, but at 105, 112, 132, 138 there is some debate on who deserves to be named to the team.

"Therefore, we will discuss the candidates with some out of the area coaches and get their opinions on the candiates before the ANP makes its final decision," Mooradian said.

Either way, the ANP all-star high school wrestling cast, including the Coach of the Year will definitely make their appearances here next week.



Top freestyle team

Few teams in the state managed to beat Belleville's foursome of Charles Smelt (from left), Tim Whittico, Chris Renton and Mike Stoelton to the wire in the 400-yard freestyle. The Tiger foursome was named as the No. 1 area freestyle relay team by the Associated Newspapers. Their best time was 3:19.0.

state as a member of the medley relay team and also placed in three WW events as well as the Suburban 8 Conference. He has been clocked in 23.2 for the 50 and 50.9 for the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events respectively. It is also his second appearance on the All-Area.

JEFF BULLOCK, one of the most personable members of the squad, turned in a 56.3 in placing seventh for the 100-yard freestyle in the tough Suburban 8 and he also helped the Tigers place fourth in the league in the medley relay, a team that went to the state finals. Bullock's first appearanced in the state finals will not be his last - he's a junior who will be tough to beat a year from now.

TIM WHITTICO is one of the rare swimmers who has earned All-Area recognition for three successive years. He's headed for Ferris State in the fall and will use his versatility to make winners out of the Bulldogs. He scored in three events at the WW, winning the 200-yard individual medley, the 100-yard backstroke and also helping the 400-yard freestyle relay team sweep the goal. Tim also scored in three events in the league, finishing fourth in both the 200-yard individual medley(2:07.2) and the 100-yard backstroke(58.6), while being a member of the second-place finishing freestyle relay team(3:19.0).

"In my opinion, Tim is one of the best all-around swimmers in this school's history," commented Coach Vicchy. "He has helped our program considerably.

BOB MEMERING has displayed a lot of ability in all of the strokes, "and, pound for pound is our toughest swimmer," said Vicchy. "I feel he has a bright future in swimming."

Memering has his second letter, completing a season which included a sixth place in the 500-yard freestyle (5:07.0) in the league and placing both in the 200 and 500 freestyles at the WW.

MARK MILLS completed his high school swim career but, undoubtedly, will pick up where he left off when he joins the ranks of the U.S. Navy. A pleasant surprise for the Tigers, Mark was among the top divers at the Western Wayne where he placed third and in the league where he finished second.

PAT McCLELLAND, though only a sophomore, showed the maturity on the diving boards that earned for him a coveted spot on this year's team. He won the Western Wayne and placed third at the league championships to qualify him as for the state finals.

"Pat is probably the best sophomore diver we have had at Belleville," said Vicchy.

MIKE STOELTON is a blue chip swimmer who will be out to win state honors next year. A state qualifier in both relays, Mike captured the league titlein the 50-yard freestyle when he sprinted to the finish with a dazzling 22.2 showing. He was second in the 100 yard freestyle (49.2) and a key performer on the second-place finishing 400-yard freestyle relay team(3:19.0). Stoelton won the WW titles in the 50 and 100 yard freestyles.

DAVE DUBISKY is called "Pixie" by his teammates because he's so small, but Dave's contributions to this year's Tigers' squad and the teams of the future - he's only a sophomore - have been considerable. A freestyle specialist, Dave finished fifth in the 200-yard freestyle(1:53.3) and 11th in the 500-yard freestyle(5:12.1) in league competition and also placed for the first time in the WW in both events.

MARK SCHOFIELD is considered a "super soph" by his coach and among his contributions to this year's success included a pair of medal-winning performances at both the Western Wayne and the Suburban 8 Conference meets. He placed 10th in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:10.98, then swam a 1:05.76 in placing eighth in the breaststroke event.

"Off of his efforts during the year," noted Viccchy, "I'm predicting a great future for Mark in swimming."

CHARLES SMELT rounds out the Belleville entries to this year's elite team and he finished the Tiger year with his second varsity letter in the sport. He placed in both the Western Wayne and the conference and helped the freestyle relay team finish 12th in the state. Smelt was sixth in the 50 yard freestule (23.0), and seventh in the 100 freestyle (50.7) in conference competition, while, as a member of the freestyle relay team, finished second in the Sub 8.

Back to Canton's Petersen who holds just about every school record there is on the board. As a two-year member of Coach Faunce's team, Paul owns the the school records in the 100-yard butterfly at 52.3, an event he captured the state title in; the 100-yard backstroke, at 57.7, and the 500-yard freestyle (5:02.5). He also has the record in the 100-yard breaststroke(59.4) and helped set both the medley and freestyle relay records. Paul is one of four swimmers who has a share of the 50-yard freestyle at 23.1.

"It shows the versatility of this young man," said Faunce, "and his 59.4 for the breaststroke brings him within range of becoming an all-American high school swimmer."

Coach Faunce went on to say, "that Petersen is the kind of swimmer a coach dreams of having on one of his teams. I have been involved in the state meets for the past 12 years and this is the first time in my memory that anyone has won the butterfly and the breaststroke - there have been double winners at the state before - but not a swimmer who has been able to claim those two events".

BOB CLINE is also a rare swimmer. A senior, Cline holds the distinction of lettering as a freshmen, one of a few who boasts that honor. A member of the record-setting freestyle and medley teams, Bob is a league champ in the 200-yard individual medley, an event he won with a 2:07.1.

Petersen, Cline and Dan Tanner are tri-captains.

RON HURLEY is only a freshman which means he still has three years of competition ahead of him. With Bob Simark, the two own just about every freshmen record in the book. Ron placed third in the league in the butterfly, fourth in the individual medley and holds the freshman record for those events and also has posted a 1:09.8 for the breaststroke and a 24.5 for the 50 freestyle.

DAVE TANNER ended his prep career with gold medals for winning the league titles in the 50 yard freestyle(23.1) and the 100 yard freestyle(50.6) and also was a member of the league-winning medley relay team.

"He's one of four-letterwinners and has the respect of his teammates," said Faunce.

Tanner also was a member of the Chiefs' grid team, playing the punnishing middle linebacker's slot and doubling as a guard on offense.

Cherry Hill's six-time Tri-River Conference championship team contributed Tracy Hissong and Ramon Lara to this year's outstanding team.

Every team needs a Hissong on it. The 18-year-old senior is an able organizer and helped first year coach Wayne Beerbower regroup from a slow start to go on and win the league championship.

In an unprecedented move, the ANP has selected Hissong as the captain for this year's mythical All-Area swim team.

The leading scorer on this year's Spartan squad, Tracy has become the No.1 point-getter for the six-time conference champs.

Coach Beerbower singled out Hissong for MVP honors. His credentials include winning the conference championship in the 100 yard breaststroke and finishing second in the 100 yard freestyle. Tracy was a state qualifier in the 100 freestyle and was the lone member of the team to score any points at the state championships where he finished ninth in the 100 yard breaststroke. Sidelined with actue bronchitis at the beginning of the season, Hissong formed the nucleus of a Spartan team that went on to post a 6-3 won-lost season and retain the conference title. He plans to attend Eastern Michigan University in the fall and he's also making his second appearance on the All-Area team.

RAMON LARA is a junior who has developed into one of the finest freestyle distance swimmers in the school's history, a history rich with outstanding personnel including all-stater Rick Kogelschatz. He placed second at the Western Wayne Invitational in both the 200 and 500 yard freestyle events and has been defeated only twice in the 200 and once in the 500 during the course of the dual meet season.

Ramon, a super harrier, also successfully defended his league title in the 200 freestyle and annexed the 500 freestyle crown. A state qualifier for both the 200 and 500, he'll undoubtedly return to the state finals next year to become one of the favorites. He also is favored to break the school records in his specialities.

Wayne is another school that finished with an untarnished dual meet season. Coach Jim McPartlin's forces chalked up a perfect 13-0 record and picked up another - their third - Great Lakes 8 Conference championship.

One major reason for the Zebras's success was Dave Hills.

HILLS completed three years of varsity competition by setting school records in both the 200 yard freestyle at 1:48.2 and the 500-yard freestyle at 4:49.9 and his accomplished earned him a spot on the all-Great Lakes 8 Conference team and the MVP Swimmer's Award.

Dave compiled 312 points, the most points by any single swimmer in the school's history.

"He's a very dedicated, hard-working young man," says McPartlin about his protege. "And he carries a 3.2 scholastic average. Because of his all-around ability, many Michigan schools would like to get his signature on a letter of intent."

But don't be surprised if Hills heads south to Clemson. His family has already moved and, upon graduation, Dave will probably join them.

TOM BROWN is another Wayne "blue-chipper" who owns the 50 yard freestyle(23.3) and the 100-yard freestyle(50.3) school records and is a member of the record-eclipsing freestyle relay team. An all-conference selection as well, Brown qualified for the state finals for the Chiefs undefeated, win first conference swim title

Canton's Faunce is 'Coach of Year'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

A former high school state swimming champion who turned out an undefeated squad in 12 dual meets has been named The Associated Newspapers' "Coach of the Year."

Bill Faunce, Plymouth Canton's tank coach who also helped develop junior Paul Petersen into a state champion in two events this year, was accorded the honor this week.

Twenty-two years of coaching, the past six at Canton, have helped the dark-haired, bespectacled Faunce forge teams that finished third, second and first the past three years.

"My biggest achievement, I feel, is to be able to see a swimmer devleop in both his swimming ability and sportsmanship from year to year and to know I had a part in this development is extremely satisfying," Faunce said.

The 43-year-old Ohio University graduate has a host of coaching experience at both college, high school and junior high level.

He swam four years for Fremont Ross High School in Fremont, Ohio, earning state championship honors in his senior year in 1953. He then attended Ohio U. in Athens, Ohio, churning the waters for four years as a standout swimmer before graduating in 1957.

He returned to Fremont Ross High School as swim instructor from 1957 to 1965 before putting in a two-year stint as assistant coach at Florida State U. in Tallahassee, Fla.

He has spent the past 12 years in this area. He developed junior High programs in Plymouth and served as freshman coach for Plymouth High School, in addition to assisting the varsity program.

When Canton began its own high school in 1973, Faunce was named mentor of the flegling swim squad which had only nine members. In the intervening years, the soft-spoken, dedicated Faunce has molded a program that included 40 members on this year's Western Six League champion.

His teams have continued to improve, finishing third two years ago, ending last season with an 11-1 mark for second place in the Western Six and stroking their way to the title this season with an unblemished 12-0 record.

"I appreciate all the hard work and cooperation by the members of our team. I guess that is the most satisfying and fulfilling part of all — to see these boys develop into fine young men that everyone can be proud of," Faunce said.

Faunce is married and he and his wife, Vi, have three children, ages 13, eight and three, and are expecting their fourth little swimmer any day now.

When not busy developing league and individual state champions, the dedicated tank coach loves to spend his time in the great outdoors, especially camping and canoeing.

In addition to the undefeated league title, another major accomplishment of the Canton Chiefs' swim team this year includes swamping their rivals in the league meet. Canton finished with 364 points while Northville was a distant second with 272 and the other league members were completely out of the picure.

Faunce's Chiefs finished 14th out of 42 teams in the State Championships at Michigan State University pool on March 16 and 17. Earning state championship medals in the 100-yard butterfly and 100-yard breaststroke events was Paul Petersen, a tri-captain this year, who has one more year of competition.

Faunce, who seems to be building a dynasty of his own at Canton, just told us by phone that his wife gave birth Monday morning to an eight-pound male freestyler.

Dawkins is dazzling at state AAU meet

The 15-year-old Stevenson Junior High (Westland) athlete anchored the Fitzgerald's winning 800-yard freestyler relay team also made up of Joe Hojnacki, Greg Patrell and Joe Mowczan.

Greg led off the 400-yard freestyle relay team which also won the event. Hojnacki, Patrell and Mowczan also were featured in the foursome.

Dawkins picked up a pair of fourth place medals and a fifth place as well. He turned in a 49.32 in placing fourth in the 100-yard freestyle for boys 15 through 18, then also touched in fourth for the 200-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 1:46.45.

Dawkins capped the evening with a dazzling 4:54.04 in placing fifth in the 500 yard freestyle.

Second best

Romulus' Don Grandison (center) launched his senior track & field year by placing second in the high jump at the inaugural St. Patrick's Day Indoor Meet hosted by Siena Heights College in Adrian. Grandison cleared 6'4¼" to finish second to Glenn Munro of Dexter who won the event while Karl Knight of Erie (at left) was third. More than 300 boys and girls from 24 Southeastern Michigan high school competed in the meet.

Dixon wins Golden Glove novice title

Scoring an early TKO, Inkster's Conrad Dixon captured the Novice boxing title in the Golden Gloves Tournament held in Southgate recently.

Dixon, who recently turned 18, is a 147-pounder who pounded Detroiter Carl Walenciak into submission. He earned a shot at Walenciak and the title after knocking out Nathan Tate also of Detroit.

"Conrad has been boxing for less than a year," said Nick Torres, the young boxer's manager, "and he looks good. He's an all-around athlete, too, and plays basketball and hockey, so he has a lot of coordination.

past three years and will probably head for Wayne State University upon completion of his high school education. He was also league champ in the 500 as a sophomore and has been called the best freestyle sprinter in the school's history.

JOHN LEWANDOWSKI is an all-leaguer because of his outstanding performance in the 100-yard butterfly. An excellent student, John helped the Zebras win the gold in the freestyle relay, posting a 3:23.4 which qualified them for the state championships.

STEVE THOMPSON is called a "sprinter specialist" whose performancers in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events and as a member of the freestyle relay team has played a key role in winning all 13 dual meets.

DAN BUTLER is making his second appearance on the All-Area team and his 60.6 in the 100-yard backstroke places him in very fast company. Butler was a member of the Wayne medley relay team that captured a gold medal in the conference and also is the leader of the Zebra pack.

"Dan is an extremely hard worker who was designated as a senior captain," noted McPartlin. "His contribution to the success of the 1979 team has been inmeasurable."

SCOTT PAPKE was "discovered" by Coach McPartlin in a gym class and little did the diminuative diver know that he was destined to become one of the finest divers in that school's history. Papke was named to the Great Lakes 8 Conference team and also qualified for the state where he finished among the top 30.

"Scott has done an excellent job for us," said McPartlin, "and came through in crucial times."

Livonia Franklin has three members on this year's All-Area squad. They're Dave Pederson, Todd Ostlund and Tim Weber, all outstanding performers.

DAVE PEDERSON is a senior co-captain of Larry Teahan's Patriots who finished second in the Northwest Suburban Conference to league champ, North Farmington. Pederson set a league record in winning the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:03.9 and also swam the breaststroke on the record-setting and league title winning medley relay team. Coach Teahan also could rely upon Pederson to contribute points in both the freestyle or individual medley if needed, but it was the breaststroke which earned for the 18-year-old senior all-league recogition.

TODD OSTLUND also ended an outstanding prep swim career with a host of accomplishments. He made all-league for his efforts in the medley relay and also owns the 100-yard backstroke school record at 59.8. Todd swam the lead-off leg of the 200 medley relay which established a league as well as school record. That performance enabled the Patriots to qualify for the state finals.

TIM WEBER will be back a year from now to defend his Northwest Suburban title in the 100-yard freestyle. He placed second in the 50-yard freestyle and also anchored the record-setting medley relay team.

Record barrier

Medley of talent

A one-skillet dish — Rice-Tuna Jambalaya

Bringing a touch of spring to family dinners provides a welcome relief from winter-weary menu plans. And Rice-Tuna Jambalaya shows you how easy it is when you use Minute rice to stretch good things like tuna and fresh vegetables. With another 11 days of Lent still ahead of us, this is also an ideal meat-free dish.

Rice-Tuna Jambalaya

2 beef bouillon cubes*
1-½ cups boiling water*
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup thinly sliced unpeeled cucumber
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup thin strips green pepper
1 small onion, sliced
1 medium tomato, cut in wedges
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups packaged enriched pre-cooked rice
1 can (7 oz.) water-packed tuna, drained and flaked

*Or use 1-½ cups beef bouillon.

Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Melt butter in large skillet. Add cucumber, celery, green pepper and onion and saute until vegetables are just tender. Stir in the bouillon, tomato, lemon juice, oregano, salt, rice and tuna and bring to boil. Cover and simmer over low heat for 5 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Fluff with a fork. Garnish with sliced hard-cooked egg, if desired. Makes 6 cups or 4 to 6 servings.

Baby shower held for Evelyn Larabell

There's a new nursery being readied these early spring days at the home of Dave and Evelyn Larabell of Belleville. The pending arrival of their first child, slated for May, was heralded Sunday, March 25 when some 27 guests gathered to honor the mother-to-be at a stork shower.

Arriving from Wayne, Detroit, Saline, Livonia, Ypsilanti, Tecumseh and Belleville the group was comprised mostly of teaching associates of the honored guest as well as wives of Belleville Kiwanians.

Special guests were the two "expectant grandmothers, Mrs. James (Larabell) Bialk of Wayne and Mrs. Firman Wilkinson of Detroit.

Hostesses were Fran Stapleton, Donna Kapanowski and Juanita Graff of Belleville and Peg Chizmar of Saline. Punch and a buffet of hors d' oeuvres were followed by the gift presentation. Mrs. Larabell, who wore a corsage of pink, blue and white blooms, was assisted by two young ladies from Saline — Becky Chizmar and Jennifer Henry. Included in the packages were several handknit and hand crocheted items, a nursery lamp, baby album, jumper swing, scooter, Easter basket filled with essentials and a lovely pegnoir set for the future mother.

The afternoon concluded with dessert and coffee.

For spring-summer classes

Washtenaw CC now taking registrations

Registration for spring and spring-summer classes at Washtenaw Community College begins Monday, April 9 and continues through Friday, April 27.

Students may register from 9 a.m. through 4 p.m. at the College at 4800 East Huron River Drive on the second floor of the Student Center Building. In addition, four special evening registration periods are scheduled for April 11, 19, 23 and 26 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Part time students may register by telephone from Monday, April 9 through Friday, April 20. Operators will be on duty from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Please call 973-3641. Those registering for industrial classes should phone 973-3533.

When registering by phone, please have classes selected before calling. Have the correct course number, section number, days and hour. Also, be prepared to supply your Social Security number. Billing for tuition and fees will be sent and registration will be considered complete when payment is received by the College.

Catalogues describing the several hundred classes offered by the College are available at the Registration and Admissions Center where counselors are also available for pre-registration conferences. Specific appointments, where desired, may be made by phoning the Counseling Center at 973-3464.

Tuition is to be paid for all classes in full at the time of registration. Master Charge or Visa will be accepted. Fees for in-district residents are $14 per credit hour. In-district senior citizens are invited to participate at no charge. Non-credit courses, varying in length from one session to those of 15 weeks are offered and tuition for these is determined by the subject content and length of the course. An extensive financial aid program is available through the College for those students carrying at least six hours credit and meeting other eligibility requirements. Questions regarding this should be directed to 973-3525.

The College also provides a day care facility for children 1½-5 years of age whose parents are attending classes or related activities at the College. Hours for the Children's Center are 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Fees for the Center are determined on a sliding scale which begins at 50 cents an hour. Specific information about the Children's Center is available by calling 973-3538.

Other questions regarding registration should be directed to the WCC staff at 973-3548.

VB Garden Club hears program on mushrooms

The Van Buren Garden Club met March 20 at the Ypsilanti home of Mrs. William Herman. Following the business session, Mrs. Walter Molik, clubpresident, introduced Mrs. M. La Rue of the University of Michigan Botanical Gardens who gave an interesting slide presentation on mushrooms.

Mushrooms, she explained, belong to a group of plants known as fungi which have no chlorophyll and, therefore, cannot manufacture their own food. They depend on decaying vegetable matter for their sustenance and reproduce by spores. Some mushrooms are edible but great care must be exercised in gathering them since many are of a deadly poisonous nature.

Most of the morel variety are edible as are the puff balls if gathered when the insides are white.

Erik received many nice gifts to brighten a young boys' day.

Tired of high prices? Start a food co-op

By Park E. Gregory

In these days of unmanageable prices I think we are all looking for a magic formula for better nutrition at less cost.

I don't pretend to have any magic here, but in the four attached articles there is something of a formula for a little better life and at a savings.

I have had experience in all four areas and in each I am presenting the best possible way that I know.

The Michigan Federation of Food Cooperatives is the best way to go to get your own co-op started. There are other things you can do to enhance it afterward, but it is the backbone of most co-ops.

Sprouts, yogurt making and tofu all offer excellent nutrition and lower cost. Every family should be into these three foods by this time. Those that aren't need encouragement.

Start a Food Co-op

If the cost of food is hurting, there is something you can do if you can change some old habits. Get a few friends to join you and start a food co-op.

Q: How many people are necessary for a co-op?

A: One or more. Twenty is a good number (five families) since you will buy food in bulk quantities and divid it.

Q: How much will I save?

A: About 10 percent to 15 percent at first, but 20 percent to 30 percent later on.

Q: Why not 30 percent right off?

A: You will want to join the Michigan Federation of Food Cooperatives (MFoFC) and use their warehouse in Ann Arbor as a source of supply. They need 10 percent front money to stock the warehouse.

Q: What do you mean "front money"?

A: Say you buy $100 worth of food. At that time you pay them $10 front money which is used to increase the warehouse inventory.

Q: How long do I have to pay front money?

A: If you purchase regularly once a month it will be paid up in 10 months.

Q: What if my co-op grows and my purchases increase?

A: Your front money amount (total) is equal to your average monthly purchase.

Q: If my co-op drops out of the MFoFC, what happens to the front money we have paid in?

A: All your front money is refunded.

Q: How do I join the MFoFC?

A: Write to Paul Brown, Sec., 731 Genesee, Lansing, MI 48915. He will send you a packet of instructions and an application.

Q: What does it cost to join? Are there any fees?

Q: What kind of food can I get from MFoFC?

A: They have sixteen catagories such as: cheese, 20 kinds; beans, 16 kinds; butters, 4 kinds; seeds, snacks, granolas, 14 kinds, and so on. They do not carry meat or fresh fruit or vegetables. They do have 11 kinds of dried fruits, 5 kinds of sweetners (honey, etc.), and 10 kinds of oil.

Q: Do they furnish a list?

A: Yes with the prices each month.

Q: How do I order?

A: When you are a member of MFoFC you can telephone your order to the warehouse. They will give you a date (usually a day or two later) to pick it up. A small order might be picked up on the spot.

Q: Does my co-op need a Michigan tax license?

A: No, but if you intend to buy any of the non-food items the warehouse carries such as detergents, spigots, or handbooks you will need a license.

Q: Shoud my co-op incorporate?

A: If your co-op grows there are some tax advantages to incorporation. Your packet of information from MFoFC has incorporation papers and model by-laws. Incorporation is simple.

Q: Are there any other obligations?

A: Yes, one. A member of your co-op must meet with all the other co-op representatives once each month in Ann Arbor, and attend the general membership meeting held once each year.

Q: Why does someone have to attend these meetings?

A: The MFoFC is a not-for-profit corporation which is run entirely by the member co-ops. Therefore you attend to determine the policies and operation of the MFoFC.

A: MfoFC has been in operation for years, covers Michigan, northern Ohio, and northern Indiana with a total of about 150 co-ops. They have a big modern warehouse in Ann Arbor with trucks that deliver large orders.

Q: What about produce and meat?

A: Once your co-op is going other co-ops will advise you how to get produce and meat.

Gregory, a retired educator from the Van Buren Schools, is versed in physics, electronics, chemistry and has turned to writing in his spare time as an avocation.

Three other articles written by Park E. Gregory will follow in weeks to come. Look for "Practical Indoor Gardens" — "Yogurt" — and "Tofu".

Jodi Lynn is her name

The birth of their second daughter, Jodi Lynn, is announced by Richard and Debra Flavell of Ypsilanti. Making her debut at 4:03 p.m. at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, the newcomer weighed seven pounds - 13 ounces and measured 20½ inches.

Jodi is the new sister of Amy Christine, who's 15 months old and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Novacek of Royal Oak and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flavell of Belleville.

Taking honors in the great-grandparent department are Mrs. Myrtle Hampton of Royal Oak; Mrs. Elsie Novack of Wayne and Mrs. Rachel Hamilton and Mrs. Lillie Flavell, both of Belleville.

Carrico's new daughter is Melissa

"It's a girl," say the Carricos — Terry, Judy and Jeremy — of 48543 Willis Rd., Belleville, "and her name is Melissa Ann."

Arriving Sunday, March 18, at 9:29 p.m., at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, the new heiress weighed seven pounds - seven ounces and was 20¼ inches long.

The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Glinski and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carrico, all of Romulus. Melissa's only greatgrandmother, Mrs. Nora Carrico, celebrated her 95th birthday last month.

Save on '78 taxes through April 16 with an IRA Retirement Account

Open a Security Bank Individual Retirement Account through April 16, 1979 and take a tax deduction on 1978 income.

You qualify for this tax-sheltered account if you are not currently participating in any employer-sponsored retirement plan. Your Individual Retirement Custodial Account earns 8% annual interest, paid and compounded quarterly, yielding 8.24% annually. The minimum deposit is $25, you can make additional deposits of $25 at any time, and the maximum for any year is $1,500 or 15% of your earned income (whichever is less). The total deposit can be taken as a tax deduction and, in addition, the earned and compounded interest is tax-sheltered until retirement.

An eligible IRA participant can increase savings and tax deductions with a Spouse's IRA for an unemployed spouse. Combined contributions can total $1,750 or 15% of annual compensation (whichever is less).

You have until April 16 to make IRA deposits that qualify as a 1978 Federal tax deduction. To open your account, call 283-5000 or visit any Security Bank and Trust office.

Deposits earn from day of deposit but all deposits made in same calendar year have same maturity date: three years from December 31 of year in which the deposits are made. Withdrawals without penalty are permitted in the case of death or permanent disability. Otherwise Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. There is also a substantial I.R.S. penalty for early withdrawal.

Suburban Living Editor

Moving is one heckuva job! Even with professionals handling the packing, loading and moving it's still one enormous undertaking gathering up 22 years accumulation in one swoop. Whew! Our nephew, who supervied the job, accused me of saving everything from the day I was born.

I AM a pack rat but oh, my, I've just got to mend my ways and give up that bad habit. (she tells herself, and then turns right around and saves a pile of hat boxes filled with intriguing headgear.)

"What FOR?" BG asks bewilderedly. Well, just think of how much fun our grandchildren are going to have playing dress-up with some of that old stuff. Any little girl would ADORE the flower-encrusted pot-shaped chapeau or the green fake fur or the wide-brimmed black straw as part of her make-believe. There are also a few special shoes to cover the opposite end of the anatomy — some of those crazy stilleto sling-backs with the pointed toes and the pair of rhinestone-studded pink shantung ankle strap shoes which date back to a very special day in 1954.

All that, along with a fur piece, some gaudy, chunky rings and other costume jewelry and a couple big handbags should make for some fun times when the little "Whipper-snapper" is about eight or nine. There are also the expectant mother's little China dishes, the miniature doll wardrobe her Uncle Bob made for her, tiny pots and pans, the table and chairs set, cradle, highchair and umpteen other bits of toydom to make up a neat playhouse in the basement.

Over the years we've also amassed enough baby gear (playpen, crib, stroller, buggy, swing, etc.) to take care of any infant'a needs. The highchair, I must confess, DID get tossed — too clunky to begin with, it caught a long-ago leak in the roof which pretty well took care of the chrome. Guess Lu and Pete will just have to drag a long that bit of equipment when they visit. We DO have a youth chair, though, so it won't take too much carting before the baby will be into phase two.

With all the unpacking we've done (and are still into) we've decided there will definitely be a garage sale come May — just too many good and useable things to merely toss. And I can't BEAR to junk anything that might be of use to someone else!

EVER WONDER where the saying "Put aside a nest egg" originated? Well — a little encouragement goes a long way . . . even for a bird! That's why wily farmers, when removing eggs from the roost, began routinely leaving one in the nest, as a reminder to Mama Hen to lay more eggs. Budget-minded breeders later went the ruse one better. Not wishing to waste precious food, they indulged in "fowl" play by leaving an imitation egg — usually made of porcelain. This crafty custom also hatched a popular expression: "to put aside a nest egg" — meaning to put aside a sum of money that might "egg on" more investments in the future.

We've been asked to do a little sleuthing via "potpourri" so we're putting out an APB (all points bulletin) for "The Belleville Flash" OR "The Belleville Flasher".

When Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson and his wife, Marge, were in Florida recently they learned that their daughter's in-laws, the Groeschners from Connecticut, had conversed on their CB with someone bearing either of the afore-mentioned "handles."

This all happened the first week of February and the Groeschners thought they might possibly be speaking with the Emersons themselves. The whole incident was so brief, though, that they really didn't establish identification.

Marge says that the more she thinks of it, the more curious she is to know WHO the "Flash" or "Flasher" from Belleville might be. The verbal exchange took place on Gulf Boulevard between Madiera Beach and Reddington Beach Indian Rocks. Anyone with an insight to the "mysterious" motorist is asked to give us a call at 697-9191. We've gotta help an inquisitive lady, expecially Belleville's "First."

THE GOLFER'S SLOT . . . .

JIM: I don't get it, J.R. First you slice the ball into the bushes, then across the highway and then you lose it in the woods - and you insist on finding it?

J.R.: I have to. It's my lucky ball.

Letters, we get letters — (as Perry Como used to croon) — and we LOVE them! Recently heard from that darlin' lady, Mary L. Brown, who's now an "Arkie transplant" as she puts it.

She writes to say she's been reading this column for almost three years (down in Horseshoe Bend, Arkansas), enjoying it and keeping abreast of the happenings in the "old hometown."

"We enjoy our life here in the Ozarks," she says, "our community is made up of retirees, as a majority, and as is said here — "There are no strangers, just a friend you haven't met!"

She goes on to say that she golfs on Tuesday with the "Ladies" and "we won't mention my score. Afterall, for a grandma who sat almost 25 years at a desk in Deering's office, who has only golfed, bowled and swum since coming here — we don't speak of scores, just the fun!"

She tells of the deer tracks on the golf greens, of the raccoon who peeks in the patio doors from the back deck and of her husband, Harold's running feud with squirrels in the bird feeders.

"In one column," she says, "you wrote about the combination of vegetables — one that is used here frequently is broccoli and cauliflower. Try it, you'll like it! Just cooked, seasoned and buttered.

My cooking has been a mixture of German (my first husband (Buchau) was German born) and British (my present husband is British-born). Now I've added Arkie to it so anyone eating with us takes "his chances." Hush puppies are delicious. We have tried all the usual southern dishes and actually the only on we can't enjoy is cooked okra (can anyone?)

We lead a busy life here, we still square dance, round dance and every Sunday evening ballroom dance at the clubhouse.

The tulips are in bud (March 15), the forsythia about to open and in a couple of weeks or so the dogwood and redbud will be in bloom — a sight you can't believe!

Anytime you'd like a scenic, historic and interesting vacation, y'all come on down! It's only 800 miles.

Greetings to all from the Ozarks!"

MISS YAKUBESAN

MISS ARNETT

Couples planning May, July dates

YAKUBESAN - PUBLISKI

St. Anthony's Catholic Church has been reserved for the July 28 wedding of Nadine Yakubesan of Allen Park and Kenneth Publiski of Belleville.

Their engagement and nuptial date are announced by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yakubesan of Allen Park, parents of the bride-to-be.

A graduate of Allen Park High School, Miss Yakubesan is employed by Auto Aircraft at Willow Run.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Publiski of Belleville are parents of the prospective bridegroom who attended Lincoln High School and is employed at Auto Aircraft at Willow Run.

ARNETT - BARNARD

The engagement and approaching wedding of her daughter, Joyce A. Arnett, to Robert E. Barnard is announced by Mrs. Val Arnett of 41975 Riggs Rd., Belleville.

The young couple have a May 5 altar date at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

The bride-elect, the granddaughter of the late Roger and La Verna Arnett, is a graduate of Lincoln High School. She attended Cleary College for one year and is now working for the Ford Motor Company in Ypsilanti.

Her fiance, who resides at 5291 Redding Dr., Lakeland, is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Theodore Cowper of 1205 E. Davis, Ypsilanti. An alumnus of Ypsilanti High School, he is presently employed by the Ford Motor Company in Ypsilanti.

Quotes worth quoting...

"Nothing makes a man and wife feel closer, these days, than a joint tax return."

Gil Stern said it.

Cooties from Pup Tent 18 take part in installation

The Cooties from the Military Order of the Cooties Pup Tent 18, Down River Rats, of Westland and its auxiliary participated in the installation of the Ragged Ass Rangers from Pup Tent 13 located in Union Lake on March 25. Upon arriving each auxiliary member from 18 received a corsage made of poppies, cooties and lady bugs. The corsages were presented by President Louise Kirby.

Past President and Past 8th Supreme President Meg Gregerson installed the newly-elected president, Patricia Billo, and her officers. After the installation president-elect Billo was dressed in a floor-length red gown, carrying a market basket filled with candy and a red can for donations, and went from guest to guest selling her wares to raise money for the hospital fund.

Ants are pests! Get rid of them

Each year around this time ants may make their presence known in your home by crawling across kitchen counter tops or along floorboards. An occasional ant may come from a flower pot that contains unsterilized soil but, if you see them quite frequently chances are the ants may be established in a warm area such as a wall.

For the most part the majority of common ants found in Michigan are harmless but, they can be a great inconvenience in that they will get into various foodstuffs in the house. Carpenter ants are a different story. These are fairly large black ants, ussually around 10mm in length. They tunnel into wood and are easily identified by the fine wood frass left behind as they tunnel through the wood. These insects should be of concern. Over a period of time their tunneling will weaken wood support structures. If the problem goes unchecked, it can be costly.

The key to successfully treating this problem is through tracing the ants back to their origin. If an occasional ant is the problem ant traps will probably do the job. If the ants seem to be more prevalent try sprinkling a bait of bacon or bread crumbs in the area where the ants have been sited. They will generally pick up the food and take it back to their hideout. This may take a while but it will be worth the effort.

Once their hideout is located they can be controlled by using a pyrethrum spray, baygon or malathion. Spray into the area where you believe the ants to be and along the areas where they have been spotted. Before spraying remove all food, dishes and pets from the area. Allow the spray to dry and the room to air out before returning.

If you have any further questions on the subject please feel free to contact the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service at 973-9510.

TOPS Club has first male loser

Members of TOPS No. Mi. 380 of Belleville (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) are justifiably proud of their club. They have some good, steady losers, reports secretary Carol Caudill.

Recently the club had its first male member reach his goal. Ross Medos of Willis lost a total of 20 pounds and is now eligible to participate in graduation ceremonies in October.

The "diet" club meets each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Belleville United Presbyterian Church on Belleville Road.

New edible podded pea on market

It's time to start thinking about gardening again. This year there many pleasant surprises, one of which is the new edible podded or snap pea. It was awarded the all-American gold medal award for 1979 and is being hailed by some as the most promising vegetable variety to be developed within the last one hundred years.

It offers some advantages over ordinary shell peas: it provides about twice as much edible matter per foot of row. They can be steamed, stir-fried or snapped, and eaten raw in salads. Although it freezes quite well it is not recommended for canning because the pods fall apart.

They are listed in seed catalogues under various names such as sugar snap or sugar pod and mature in 55 to 70 days if planted in the spring, 100 to 150 days if planted as a fall crop. There are no special cultural requirements but they must be staked.

Fashion show benefits Big Brother-Sister

Lord and Taylor, recognizing the unique work of the Big Brother-Big Sister program and saluting the more than 500 working women who have become Big Sisters, will present "Successful Suiting", a fashion show and champagne party to benefit this very special United Foundation Agency.

For three consecutive evenings in April, Lord and Taylor will host 300 working women at a semi-private showing of spring fashions accompanied by champagne and dessert crepes. With one show at each Lord and Taylor Diningroom — Fairlane on April 10, Twelve Oaks on April 11 and Lakeside on April 12 — women across the tri-counties will meet and sneak a peek at the latest fashions from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

"Big Brothers — Big Sisters is a unique service agency for children," said Cindy Benedict, regional public relations director for Lord and Taylor, "and with so many working women contributing to the program's success, Lord and Taylor is proud to assist with their fund-raising."

Tickets priced at $25, are tax-deductible and available individually or in tables of four, six or eight. To secure reservations call Susan DeMaggio, director of public relations, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, at 273-9216.

Free first aid seminar planned

A basic first aid seminar will be conducted at no charge for interested members of the community by Washtenaw Community College on Thursday, April 5 from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

Conducted by Jane Jacobs of the Washtenaw County Health Department, the seminar will stress "what you should do when you first see an accident victim," explains Jacobs. She will include a discussion of basic first aid priorities such as mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, controlled bleeding, what to do in case of poisoning and first, second and third degree burns.

The free class will be offered at the Ypsilanti Center of the College at 411 Florence. Advanced registrations are requested by phoning WCC staff at 482-2230.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

Educators agree that sports are beneficial because they teach many things about life. The same applies to music. Surprisingly, many things learned from music are similar to those things learned from sports. Both require coordination, concentration, and the honing skills to a fine degree. Both also require cooperation with other people. In sports, if on a team, you must play for and with the team. So it is with music. If in a band or orchestra, you must play with and for the whole group, as well.

Order of Dervishes performs dhikr of Remembrance

Mystics, lovers of oriental music and dance, and the curious can experience a rare ritual April 11, when for the first time in Michigan, the Halveti-Jerrahi Order of Dervishes from Istanbul, Turkey, will perform at the True Blood Theatre on the University of Michigan campus, Freeze Building, 105. S. State Street, in Ann Arbor at 8 p.m.

It is a free event and will be followed by a social hour when guests will be served Turkish dessert and coffee.

Carrying on the tradition of Islamic mystics, Sheikh Muzaffer el Jerrahi, leader of the Halveti-Jerrahi Order of Dervishes, and his 30 performers will present to the American public the ceremony of dhikr of Remembrance — Remembrance of God — designed to attain spiritual unity with the Truth of all Creation. The performance is one of music, chanting (from the Koran) and sacred movements.

In addition to two Hafizes — cantors — the group features three musicians, superb artists of the ney (reed flute), the kemenche (oriental stringed instrument) and the kudum (kettledrum).

This is only the second time the Helvati-Jerrahi are appearing outside of Turkey. Last year they were invited to the International Arts Festival of Rennes, France, where their performance of the Sufi ceremony of dhikr was acclaimed. They went on to Paris and Berlin where their reception stirred much interest.

A subsequent brief visit to New York City last year at the invitation of New York and Columbia universities and the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine was the group's first visit to the United States. This spring, in addition to the April 11 performance in Ann Arbor, a three-week tour will take them to New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., and Rochester, N.Y. Their final appearance in North America will be in Ontario, Canada.

The Helvati-Jerrahi sect of the Sufis were called the "Howling Dervishes" by 18th century English tourists. The Sufi orders of the Ottoman Empire from the 13th century to the present were responsible for the finest examples of Turkish poetry, music and art.

Unlike the better known "Whirling Dervishes" who move in gentle turns, the Jerrahi's dhikr moves in a powerful way. It unfolds into a breathtaking and mysterious ritual of swaying and bowing movements of chanting in unison the names of God to the accented beat of drums and the wailing sound of the reed flute.

The voices intone the tawhid, la ilaha illa 'llah — "There is not god but God."

The ancient ceremony is based on secret formulas cherished through the centuries culminating in collective ecstacy. The halga — circle of dervishes — spin in an ever-tightening knot around the Sheikh. Drawn by mysterious energies, as planets around the sun, uttering evergrowing cries, the circle of dervishes move as one body unified in breath and heartbeat. The diffused forces gather into a single energy of yearning, becoming an explosion of voices, reaching a cosmic exclamation of freedom, interlaced by choruses of hymns, until the dervishes reach the state of fana, losing themselves in a mystical ecstacy with all creation.

Silverdome to host 4th Super Cross

The Pontiac Silverdowm will play host tothe fourth annual Motor City International Super-Cross at 8 p.m. April 28 and 2 p.m. April 28.

The events are being sponsored by the Pace-Delta Motorsports and are presented by the Detroit Free Press.

Last year the events attracted 65,000 fans and the winner each day was Bob "Hurricane" Hannah. Hannah went on to become the American Motorcycle Association Super-Cross National Champion. In 1978, Pontiac was the largest attended Super-Cross in the United States.

Prize money at Pontiac reflects the importance of the event and is now posted at $50,000. Toyota Truck Division is again sponsoring the AMA Super-Cross Championship Series with a $50,000 point fund for competitors.

Both the Saturday and Sunday events are separate complete championship events in the 14 race Super-Cross Championship Series. Sunday evening, after the championship, local moto-cross riders will get a chance to try their skills on the Silverdome track. This local event will be sponsored by the High Point Racing Products Company and the Michigan Motorcycle Dealers Association. No additional admission charge will be charged to spectators on Sunday who stay to watch the local racers.

Advance adult tickets are $6 general admission on the top level, $7 general admission on the lower level and $8 reserved on the club level. Adult tickets will be $1 more on the days of the events. Tickets will be available from the Pontiac Silverdome Box Office.

Lecture topic is lacy glass

Lowell Innes, noted lecturer, author and collector, will speak on the identification and description of Eastern, Midwestern and French lacy glass during Thursday's offering of the Henry Ford Museum Antiques Lecture Series.

The glass were fine 19th century wares treasured for their billiance and their lace-like or crocheted appearance.

Innes's approach will be particularly suited to highlighting the differences and similarities among these types of glass. He will illustrate his lecture with slides, often projecting more than one image so that objects can be easily compared.

One of his major interests is the early 20th century effort for the recognition of the Midwestern type of lacy glass, and he will discuss the times when many respected authorities assumed that American lacy glass had been only produced on the Eastern Seaboard. He also will explain the historical relationship between French and Eastern designs.

Innes is the author of "Pittsburgh Glass, 1797-1891," to whch he devoted more than 10 years of researching and writing. An honorary curator of glass at the Currier Gallery of Art in Manchester, N.H., Innes is one of the country's foremost experts and museum consultants on 19th century American glass-making.

The lecture is at 8:30 p.m. in Henry Ford Museum Theater. Admission is $3. For more information, call 271-1620, ext. 550.

Detroit Symphony featured in MB '79 Pops concerts

Meadow Brook Music Festival has announced its 9-week Sunday Pop Series lineup, which will feature the Detroit Symphony Orchestra performing five concerts and a variety of poqular conductors and performers on the other four Sunday evenings this summer.

Stuart Hyke, managing director of the Meadow Brook Music Festival, explained the foucs of the 1979 Pops Concerts programming as: "We've designed this year's Sunday Pops Series as ideal family fare. Our programs will offer a wide range of entertainment — music, magic and much more. We're hoping that families will pack up their picnic suppers and come out to the festival grounds on Sunday evenings to relax and enjoy our concerts."

The season will begin on June 24 with Michael Tilson Thomas conducting the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in an all-Gershwin concert, entitled "That's Music By George!" Selections will range from Gershwin's Broadway hits to his symphonic compositions. Featured pianist will be Earl Wild, who is well known for his numerous Gershwin recordings.

On July 1, the festival offers a patriotic Independence Day program as Leonard B. Smith and the Detroit Concert Band present "An Evening With John Philip Sousa." All musicians will dress in authentic Sousa-era band costumes. An added attraction is the peformance of the talented and vibrant Meadow Brook Estate, a group of Oakland University singers and dancers. In traditional 4th of July style, a gigantic fireworks display will follow the concert.

Richard Hayman, a favorite pops conductor among Meadow Brook audiences, will return on July 8 to lead the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in a concert entitled "Duelin' Harmonicas." Hayman, well known for his talents on the harmonica, will be joined by world renowned harmonica player, Larry Adler. The two will play several selections together, as well as performing individually.

On July 15, ever-popular vocalist Ethel Merman, star of stage, screen and television, will make her first Meadow Brook appearance. In her distinctive style, Miss Merman will sing an extensive medley of her greatest hits. She will be accompanied by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Eric Knight.

The mood changes to ragtime on July 22 as the popular New England Conservatory Ragtime Ensemble performs "A Salute to Ragime." The ensemble will be led by its founder, Gunther Schuller, who is a noted interpreter of ragtime music and a highly respected contemporary composer.

On July 29, Meadow Brook hosts world famous soprano, Anna Moffo. Miss Moffo's performance will include a wide variety of selections ranging from Viennese operattas to Broadway hits by Rogers and Hammerstein. Renowned European conductor Franz Allers will lead the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in accompaniment.

The festival will depart from its usual offerings on aug. 5 when it presents the unique and highly entertaining Blackstone Magic Show. Magician Harry Blackstone Jr., recognized as one of the modern-day masters of magic, will perform with the assistance of an unusual, multi-talented cast including an elephant, tiger, donkey and a chorus of singers and dancers.

On Aug. 12, the Meadow Brook spotlight will shine on Barbara Cook, one of the outstanding Broadway singers of all time. Her concert, "The Great Songs," will include many of her most famous Broadway hits. Wally Harper.

All Sunday evening concerts begin at 7:30 p.m. and are held in the outdoor Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester. For further program or ticket information, call the Meadow Brook Music Festival Box Office at (313) 377-2010.

Tickets on sale for Met concerts

Mail order tickets now are available for the general public for performances of the Metropolitan Opera at Detroit's Masonic Auditorium May 21-26, 1979.

An unusually varied slate of operas is scheduled for 1979 Met Week. The season's opener, on May 21, will be a new production of Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" featuring Beverly Sills. On the following night will be Poulenc's "Dialogues of the Carmelites," performed in English and featuring native Detroiter Maria Ewing, winner of the DGOA Grinnell Scholarship in 1970, along with Regine Crespin, Raymond Gibbs, and Jerome Hines. On Wednesday May 23 will be Verdi's masterpiece "Otello," starring Jon Vickers, Sherrill Milnes and Gilda Cruz-Romo. Following on May 24 will be Puccini's "Tosca," featuring Luciano Pavarotti with Magda Olivero and Cornell MacNeil.

Wagner's "Tannhauser" will be presented on May 25, with Met Notables Leonie Rysanek and Mignon Dunn.

Two new productions will be highlighted on May 26 to close Met week — a matinee performed in English of Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" with Nicolai Gedda, Teresa Stratas and Jon Vickers, and in the evening, Verdi's "Don Carlo" with Paul Plishka, Vasile Moldoveanu and Gilda Cruz-Romo.

Henry Ledyard, general manager of the Detroit Grand Opera Association, which sponsors the Met's annual visit to Detroit, noted that "seats are available for most performances but are going very quickly. Two performances — the opening night "Don Pasquale" and Thursday's "Tosca" are, except for a few scattered singles and standing room, sold out."

All ticket ordering must be done by mail. Anyone not possessing a Met Week ticket order form should contact the Detroit Grand Opera Association office at Ford Auditorium, 20 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan 48226, or call (313) 965-2940 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Monte Carlo circus comes to Cobo Hall

Award—winning circus artists from the world's most prestigious professional circus competition, the annual International Circus Festival of Monte Carlo, comparable in professional stature to the Oscars and Olympic Gold Medals, are coming to Detroit's Cobo Arena, May 1-6, under the high patronage of His Serene Highness Prince Ranier III, Europed's most prominent patron of the Circus Arts.

The fabulous, multi-media European-style Circus, entitled The Festival International Du Cirque De Monte Carlo Spectacular, is the only show of its kind to ever appear on this side of the Atlantic.

The amazing cast of aerialists, daredevils, acrobats, animal trainers, musical harlequins, and much more, from a host of foreign countries, have all participated, by invitation only, in the superb Monte Carlo International Circus Festival event, receiving special awards and Gold and Silver Clown Sculptures for exceptional skills in a variety of competition categories.

The award-winning line-up of superlative talent includes Britain's dashing young daredevil Elvin Bale, top prize-winner at the International Circus Festival of Monte Carlo; the classical tiger presentation of Hungary's talented Karoly Donnert; Europe's popular and most prominent musical clown family, the Eotvos; the electrifying Luis Munoz, Spain's titan of the tightwire; the hilarious Fawcet chimpanzees; the acrobatic and animal training genius of the Richters, one of Europe's best known troupes whose award—winning repertoire includes educated elephants and galloping bareback horses; the unprecedented teeterboard artistry of the Silagi troupe, acknowledged throughout the world as best in their tumbling craft; the spell-binding Duo Dobritch, Switzerland's polished pair of perch pole perfectionists; the aerial marvels of Colombia's Albarracines, and the unmatched highwire accomplishment of Gene Mendez, a veteran Circus artist with a long and prestigious reputation as the consummate wire-walking exponent.

The Festival International Du Cirque De Monte Carlo Spectacular, produced by Irvin Feld and Kenneth Feld of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, provides North American audiences with a fresh and thrilling circus experience never before witnessed domestically. Both the talent and format for the elegantly designed extravaganza reflect the long admired and centuries—old European Circus tradition.

Moliere's rollicking farce, "The Adventures of Scapin" has opened for a four-week run at the Meadow Brook Theatre on the campus of Oakland University near Rochester.

John Ulmer, a frequent guest director at Meadow Brook, staged the famous French farce. This version of "The Adventures of Scapin" is Ulmer's adaptation.

The plot of the farce revolves around the title character, Scapin, an outrageous but beguling servant who races through a series of comic complications, talking himself into and out of trouble with lightning speed. He outwits his master to support the cause of young love and lines his pocket with gold at the same time. Mistaken identities, irate fathers and foreign thieves add color to the constant action of the comedy.

Eric Tavaris plays the title role of the conniving servant, Scapin. Tavaris most recently appeared at Meadow Brook in "Ring Round the Moon" executing a torrid tango, and as a disillusioned alcoholic in "That Championship Season" last fall.

Melanie Resnick has returned from her home in London to play the role of Hyacinthe. Miss Resnick was last seen here in Meadow Brook's production of "Picnic". Other Meadow Brook alumni in the cast are Curtis J. Armstrong and David Kroll. Earlier this season Armstrong played solid comic roles in "The Devil's Disciple" and "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial". David Kroll's previous Meadow Brook appearances were in "Spoon River", "A Doctor in Spite of Himself", "Inherit the Wind", "The Front Page" and "County Girl".

George Gitto, who will play the role of Geronte, one of the irate fathers, most recently completed the National Tour and the TV production of "The Royal Family". Other newcomers to the Meadow Brook stage include, Peter Blaxill, Michael Forella, Mary Gutzi and Doug Schneider.

"The Adventures of Scapin" features a single setting by Douglas Wright, costumes by Mary Lynn Bonnell and lighting by Fred Fonner. This production of "The Adventures of Scapin" will tour the state, following its run at Meadow Brook from April 27 through May 20. This fifth Meadow Brook Theatre tour of Michigan has been funded by the State Legislature through the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Tickets for "The Adventures of Scapin" may be purchased at Hudson's or by calling the Meadow Brook Theatre box office at 377-3300.

Performances of "The Adventures of Scapin" are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Saturdays, 6:30 p.m. on Sundays and 2 p.m. on Wednesdays. The theatre is dark on Mondays.

In Michigan

Crafty things flavor April

"The stars at night are big and bright" ... in the sky and on stage during April in Michigan. The month also offers some "crafty" things to do flavored with the sweetness of spring, according to the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events.

In the realm of celestial offerings, Besser Planetarium in Alpena presents a "Cosmis Visions" skyshow through April 8 and "Spring Star Talk" April 15-May 27. Longway Planetarium in Flint stages "The Rites of Spring" skyshow April 1-14.

When you say Sarah Vaughn and Count Basie, you've said it all when it comes to rhythm and blues, jazz and contemporary musical perfection. The dynamic duo comes to the Music Hall in Detroit April 3-8. The harmonizing, vocalizing of The Lettermen is scheuled for Miller Auditorium at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo and the delightful wit and pianism of Victor Borge will charm the audience at MSU's Auditorium in East Lansing, both on April 4.

Some things never go out of style and the music of the Glen Miller Orchestra is amog them and will be in concert April 17 at the Arts Academy at Interlochen. The Civic Center in Lansing welcomes Johnny Cash April 22, and Cleo Laine and John Dankworth take full command of the stage at the Music Hall in Detroit April 24-29.

Along with the sweet sounds go the sweet flavors of maple syrup and maple sugar candy. Indulge yourself in the springtime treat at the Maple Syrup Festival in Shepherd April 27-29 and at Vermotville April 28-29. Shepherd has a wide variety of activities planned for the whole family to enjoy as well as the traditional pancake and sausage dinners.

Busy fingers and fancy doers will display the fruis of their creative talents at the Arts and Crafts Show April 19-21 at St. Charles; Arts and Crafts Exhibit at Meridian Mall in Okemos April 19-22; and the Ceramic Show at the IMA Auditorium in Flint April 20-22.

Antiquers, collectors and browsers will find tempting treasures from the past at the Art and Antique Auction at the Cranbrook Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills April 18-22; the Antique Show at the Artillery Armory in Oak Park April 20-22; Antiques Market on the Farm Council Grounds in Ann Arbor April 22; and the Antiques and Collectables Show at Civic Center in Lansing April 28-29.

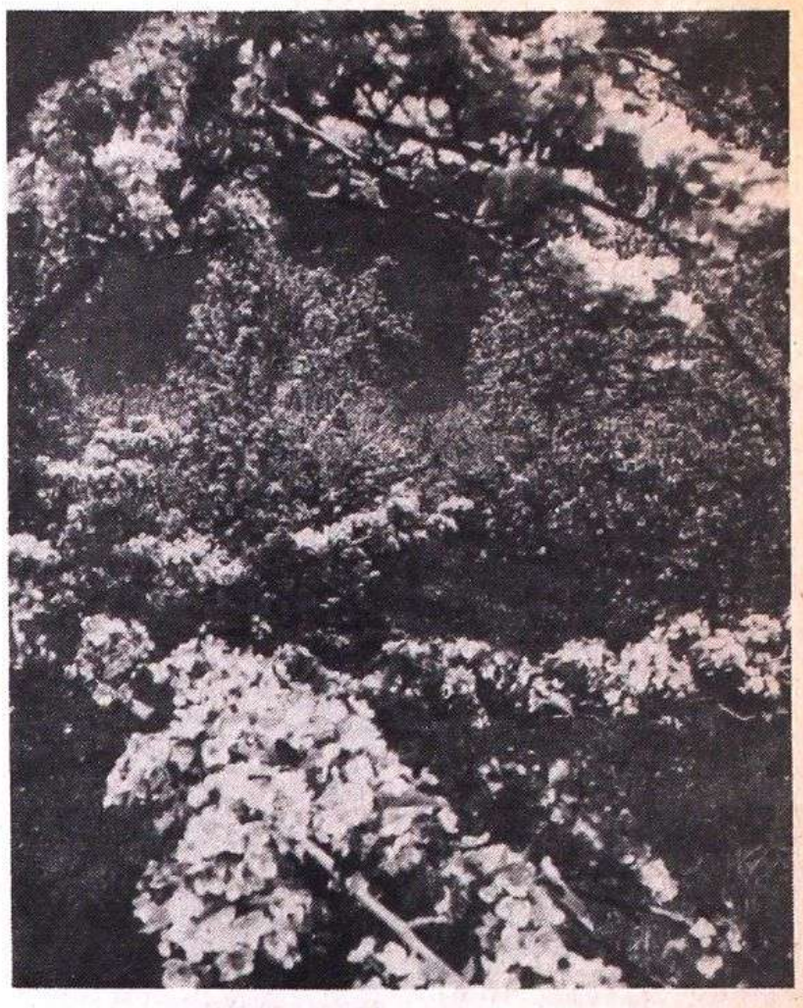
Probably, Michigan's oldest festival, and certainly its loveliest, is "Blossomtime" April 29-May 5 at Benton Harbor-St. Joseph. The event is reputed to be one of the largest of its kind in the country and the Grand Floral Parade, with its spectacular, blossom-decked floats, often has been likened to the Rose Parade. A rather unique aspect of "Blossomtime" are the blossom trails through the orchards that visitors can follow and enjoy the fragrance and beauty of spring in bloom.

Another Michigan event, traditional with the coming of spring, is the National Trout Festival in Kalkaska April 27-29. In addition to the prize "catch competition, there will be parades, dances, carnival fun and other entertaining events.

Two outstanding and extremely interesting exhibits open this month at the Institute of Arts in Detroit. "Poster Art in Poland, 1899-1978" will include 180 works selected from the world's first poster museum near Warsaw. The exhibit opens April 14 and cntinues through May 15. "Noguchi's Imaginary Landscapes" combines numerous examples of the Japanese-American sculptor's beautiful, simple designs with models, plans and photographs of his internationally famous projects April 19-June 17.

April's program for Michigan theatre goers includes several all time favorites the likes of "Hello Dolly" April 4-7 at the Pit and Balcony in Saginaw; "My Fair Lady" April 4-7 and 11-14 at the Kalamazoo Center in Kalamazoo; "Oklahoma" at the Partington Center in Lansing April 6-7; and "A Chorus Line" April 11-30 at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

April is the month to get out and enjoy the "spring" of Michigan. To make sure you don't miss any of the fun, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events available from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909.



Blossom time

Blossoms will be bedecking trails through orchards in Michigan later this month and will be a fragrant attraction for visitors to "Blossomtime" at Benton Harbor and St. Joseph April 29 through May 5.

Institute exhibit features Polish 1899-1978 posters

From the world's first museum devoted exclusively to poster art, "Polish Posters 1899-1978" will be exhibited at the Detroit Institure of Arts from April 14, through May 13. Lent by the Poster Museum in Wilanow (a suburb of Warsaw), all 180 examples document development of the poster from the turn of the century to the present in Poland.

On subjects from "Canterbury Tales" to "Cabaret," and from the circus to the Chopin Piano Competition, the poster imagery makes innovative graphic statements on a variety of themes — national celebrations, theatre performances, music, art exhibitions, sports events, education, films and the circus. Polish posters have very little to do with advertising in the Western sense, because business competition has no part in the economy.

These colorful posters are exhibited in the Main Building — Ground Floor galleries of the Detroit Institute of Arts adjacent to Kresge Court. Artists represented include Jerzy Czerniawski, Jan Lenica, Jan Sawka, Waldemar Swierzy, Henryk Tomaszewski and Maciej Urbaniec.

On May 5, the public is invited to a free 7 p.m. reception and 8 p.m. lecture sponsored by the museum's Founders Society and the Freinds of Polish Art, Detroit. Guest speaker Danuta Boczar, Wayne State University instructor in art and art history, will discuss "The History and Significance of the Polish Poster," in the Art Institute Lecture-Recital Hall.

"Polish Posters" will also be the subject of free mid-day gallery talks May 9 and May 11 at 1:30 p.m. by Christine Schneider of the museum's education department.

The exhibition of Polish Posters is open to the public without charge during regular museum hours — 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

HAD ONE TOO MANY?

YES, but I sold it in the Want Ads.

Yes, I had one too many, but I sold the extra one through the quick-action Want Ads.

Brandy and Snifter were both great St. Bernards, but two is too many. Found Brandy a great home in a mountain winery. Those Want Ads are read everywhere.

If you have one too many of any useful item, a Want Ad can find it a new home and fill your wallet with some of that government lettuce.

Clean out those storage areas, it's a good New Year's Resolution, and those still valuable items like toys, bikes, appliances, sewing machines, typewriters, musical instruments, and the like, will be welcomed by someone.

WANT ADS DO A WORLD OF GOOD.

PHONE YOUR AD IN, TODAY!
729-4000

A knowledgeable Ad-Visor will help you write a hard-selling Want Ad that will trade your surplus items for dollars, and you can't have too many dollars.

WANT ADS

PERSON TO PERSON COMMUNICATION

It's International Want Ad Week!
Wherever newspapers are printed . . . from here to Rome and back again . . . the employment pages in the Want Ads are the local job marketplace . . . where employers and employees meet, to their mutual benefit.

If you're looking for a job, check the "Help Wanted" Ads in the newspaper, our city's job marketplace. If you're an employer, the people you want are probably reading the "Help Wanted" ads now . . . perhaps people already employed who are looking for a better job. Hook into this active labor market by dialing the phone number below and start your result-getting ad.

Start letting Want Ads help you live better today!

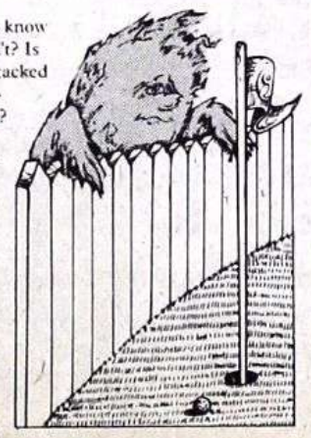
Is the grass always greener in the neighbor's yard?



Do your neighbors know something you don't? Is your grass being attacked by insects? Dandelions? Other weeds?

Then you need our four specially-blended applications designed to control those problems. And satisfy your lawn's nutritional needs.

Find out today about Davey's professional program at a do-it-yourself price. Call now for a free estimate and lawn analysis.

P.S. And ask our representative how you can receive a free grass shear or anvil pruner.

TAX SHELTER

DO YOU HAVE A "TAXLOOPHOLE?" You may not think of home ownership as a "tax loophole" but it is one of the best tax shelters around.
A home is a sound investment for most families even with modest means. When you own your home, you get income tax breaks by including real estate taxes and interest payments in itemized deductions.
Plus... real estate values are expected to increase in the years ahead, as they have in the past. When you sell your house, the increase in value is a Capital gain which generally is taxed at 50 percent of the rate for ordinary income. Taxes can be postponed by reinvesting the proceeds in another home that costs as much as is realized from the sale of the old house.

OFFICIAL RULES

A. Election is open to any boy or girl, age 10 through 14 years. Boys and girls who receive the highest number of votes in each store will win.

B. Vote for your favorite boy or girl by writing his or her name on the back of each pink cash register tape you receive at all participating stores.

C. The number of votes on each tape is determined by the total purchases shown on it. Your candidate will receive one vote for each 10¢ purchase. For example, a $10 purchase shown on your pink cash register tape would be worth 100 votes for your favorite boy or girl. (Beer, wine or cigarettes are not included in eligible purchases).

D. Votes (tapes and bonus vote forms) must be placed in the official ballot box in each store in order to be counted. Each store will post the number of winners it is sponsoring in the store.

E. Votes are not transferable between stores and all candidates must be registered by the end of the 4th contest week.

F. "Jet Journey" elections will start the week of April 2 and close Saturday, May 26, 1979. Election is not open to children or immediate relatives of the following: Participating wholesale headquarters and supply depot personnel, participating store owners and employees, nor personnel of any agency or supplier which services or sells to the above.

G. The decisions of sponsoring stores in judging the winners are final. Sponsoring store management is solely responsible for tie-breaking procedures and any prizes other than the posted decision trips.

Preventive care: Important aspect

EDITOR'S NOTE:
The following is reprinted from the book "The Back-Yard Mechanic–Volume Two," which contains a number of articles on do-it-yourself auto service procedures. Originally published in "Driver" magazine, articles include buying a used car, basic tune-up, drum brake repairing, carburetor rebuilding and air conditioning service. Price is $1.60.

Volume One of the series contains features on disc brakes, transmission, radiators and battery. Price is $1.25.

Both are available at U.S. Government bookstores or through Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Americans consume about a quarter of their gasoline for recreational pursuits, and condition of vehicles used for camping is a significant factor. Champion Spark Plug Company engineers who inspected tow vehicles in Mansfield, Ohio, and motor homes in Sioux Falls, S.D., found nearly 80 percent needed maintenance to achieve maximum fuel efficiency and reliable performance.

Preventive maintenance, in the form of a grease job and an oil-and-oil-filter change, is probably the best way to prolong the life of your vehicle's power plant and help insure that the engine won't go out to lunch when you need it most.

Why Change? Oil, like most other things, eventually wears out. The addition of aftermarket oil supplements may replenish some of the original chemical components, but they won't remove the accumulated acid, ash, moisture, or other contaminants that build up in motor oil over a period of time.

The oil filter can remove only so much of the accumulated junk before it, too, fails to function properly.

Why "change" chassis lubricants like you do oil? For the same reasons. . .grease "wears out" eventually and becomes contaminated with foreign matter, just the same as oil.

Since both chassis and engine parts are made up almost entirely of metal, they are subject to failure caused by contaminants in the lubrication.

Another is the formation of deposits of foreign matter caused by the inability of dirty lubricant to keep surfaces clean.

A third problem is the failure of metal caused by the attack of acids formed by combustion or chemical reaction. . .acids that can be defeated only by removing the contaminated lubricant.

How often? One thing is certain—you won't hurt your engine by changing the oil too often. We at "Driver" feel that frequent changes of oil and filter are the keys to long engine life.

With the exception of new cars using a reputable synthetic, we feel that 5000 miles is the longest your car should go without a change. In dusty areas of the country, 3000 is about the outside limit.

And while you're at it, don't forget to check and change, if necessary, the fuel and air filters, too.

Power brake systems often have an air filter, and automatic transmissions have a fluid filter . . . check 'em when you do your PM, change 'em as needed, and we think you'll find that the cars of today will go an awfully long time before major maintenance is needed.

Quality: All oil cans are supposed to be labeled with a code which indicates the oil's service limitations.

For pre-'71 cars, use oil graded at least SD (Service Deluxe). Newer cars require SE (Service Extreme) quality. Most premium-quality oil will provide adequate engine protection, so the choice of brands is personal preference.

If you do decide, for some reason, to switch brands, be sure that you continue to use the same type (detergent or non-detergent) and rating (SE or SD) that you have been using.

Most good quality oil filters are about the same . . . but be sure that, whatever brand or type you choose, it meets the car manufacturer's specifications and warranty requirements.

Lately, we've seen the development of two-stage filters and filters with internal additive supplies. Both new types appear to be well-tested and reliable and seem to have gained acceptance with the professional racer crowd. These new-type filters are not too much more expensive than conventional filters, and the added protection they offer may be worth the increase in price over single-stage conventional filters.

Elmer R. (Woody) Woodard explains the workings of his 1 Rite Time Saver Fuel Control System at his Elizabeth City, N.C., service station. After buying gas and recording her odometer mileage, the customer inserts a credit card into a machine that computes key details of the transaction. Later, she'll get a report on how efficiently she uses fuel.

Fixing nicks, scratches is easy for most

Repairing and refinishing the body of your car can be worthwhile and done in the confines of your own garage.

Repairs of nicks and scratches, dents, small rustouts and ares of surface rust are not difficult for the do-it-yourselfer, according to experts of the DeVilbiss Company, manufacturers of paint spray guns.

To repair minor nicks and scratches, you'll need sheet sandpaper grades 240, 320, 400, 600, sanding block, spot putty, masking tape, tack cloth, pre-cleaner solvent, newspaper, pail, water and sponge.

Use automotive duplicate color, touch-up paint found in small bottles or aerosol cans.

Normally, these paints are available for cars up to three years old. (Even when your car is new, it's wise to buy color matching touch-up paint, anticipating future needs.)

If you cannot find the paint in bottles or aerosol cans, then an automotive paint store usually can custom mix the paint.

The most common types of automotive paints are lacquers, enamels, and acrylic lacquers and enamels. Touch up your car with the same type paint originally used.

If the scratch is not too deep and rust does not appear, then repairing the surface won't be necessary.

To touch up nicks and scratches, first clean the surface with soap and water and let it dry. Then use a precleaning solvent to remove thoroughly any wax and grease.

Sanding isn't necessary if the area is small and the primer has not been chipped off. A temporary touch-up for protection and improved appearance is all that's necessary.

To touch up a scratch, use a bottle of paint and a small soft brush and let the paint flow into the scratched area.

In either case, let the paint dry and apply several coats.

If the nick or scratch is deeper than the primer, sand and prime before painting. Wet-sand the area lightly using a 300 range sandpaper and taper the edge of the painted surface adjacent to the scratch.

Place a wet sponge above the sanding surface and allow water to flow down while sanding.

Determine whether the sanding is satisfactory by running your fingers over the area without feeling an edge between the bare metal and finished surface.

You're now ready to mask, clean, apply primer, spot putty in small pinholes, finish sand with 600 paper and apply the finish coat.

When surface has been prepared for painting, remove all traces of dust by using a tack rag.

Practice spraying on a piece of cardboard. To use an aerosol can or spray gun, hold the sprayer 6-10 inches from the surface and move it in a back and forth motion, overlapping each stroke just enough to ensure an even coat.

Over cups of coffee, a motorist and a mechanic discuss needed service work on her car. By bringing in records of previous work done and a "diary" of maintenance she can assist the service man in a proper diagnosis of the problem. U.S. government surveys show proper communication between car owners and mechanics helps create satisfaction with the work—something that is most important during vacation travel time.

Certified mechanics abound

Finding a mechanic certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence in your neighborhood becomes less difficult all the time. Some 140,000 mechanics have won NIASE credentials.

Ask the repair shop if it employs NIASE certified mechanics. Look for the orange and blue gear shoulder patches and the outdoor sign that reads: "We employ mechanics certified by NIASE . . . let us show you their credentials."

If you want a free listing of shops employing certified mechanics in your state, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to NIASE State Listing, Suite 515, 1825 K Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

For a national roster of shops called "Where to Find Certified Mechanics for Your Car," send a check or money order for $1.95 to the same address.

Mechanic's advice

Describe symptoms

By MIKE KURTA

there is a lot of talk these days about the quality of automotive service, and the number of complaints brought forth by the motoring public. One of the reasons could be a gap in communication between the car owner and his or her mechanic.

Often there is a lack of understanding as to the basic problem with the car and the reason for asking for certain service operations. This may be a result of a sketchy or unclear description of the trouble, laced with opinions volunteered by friends and neighbors, and handed over from owner to service writer, to foreman to mechanic.

Here are some tips on how to talk to your mechanic:

First of all, if you try to imagine a patient taking his ills to a medical doctor, you will understand more clearly what your mechanic faces when he looks under the hood of your car. The difference is, your car can't tell him where it hurts, so you must be your car's voice.

Keep records. That means any and all previous service receipts should be kept in a folder in your glove compartment. They should be ready for instant inspection in the event of a warranty question on tires, batteries, mufflers, etc., and it will give your mechanic a running history of your car's maintenance routine.

Have these available when you arrive at the garage and offer to produce them if needed. Unnecessary work can often be avoided by checking back to see when the last job was done.

Write things down. Many shops like a grocery list of items you want done, and it also helps you to remember things you might forget when you bring your car in.

If you have a particular problem, take time to write down the symptoms you have noticed. When did the problem begin? Have you had it before? Does it make noise? Does it happen when the engine is cold in the morning? Is there an odor?

All descriptions are welcome and any clue you can provide your mechanic may be the one he needs to arrive at an accurate diagnosis of your car's problem.

It has often happened that just one point of information by the owner steers the mechanic down the right road to locate the trouble.

Stick to the facts. Try to refrain from too much hearsay and opinion which tends to be misleading and might result in the wrong thing being fixed.

Don't be afraid to take time and explain in careful, thorough detail what you want. You don't have to be a mechanic to describe that cough, squeak, or oil drip.

Plain language will do. After all, who knows your car better than you?

If you have an intermittant problem, one that is not present all the time, such as a rough running engine or a balky transmission, try to arrive when the trouble is there, so you can demonstrate it.

There's nothing more frustrating to a mechanic than to try to locate a toothache that has disappeared. If necessary, offer to take him on a road test so he can see first hand what the problem is. And be sure to leave your telephone number in case he needs to call and consult you further about the symptoms.

Tow vehicles tested in Mansfield, Ohio, get disappointing gas mileage according to their owners. One reason is lack of good maintenance, the Champion tests showed.

Emmission checks saves

Maintaining a car for clean air is as good for the pocketbook as it is for the lungs, according to a study by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

In a report submitted to the Society of Automotive Engineers, Ted Bayler and Leslie Eder of NHTSA tell of an average 4.7 percent improvement in fuel economy after repairs to correct high emissions.

Bayler and Eder claimed, "if this could be projected nationwide, it would mean saving about 1.8 billion gallons of gasoline per year and a subsequent savings of $1.1 billion per year for the consumer."

Data for the tests were collected in Alabama, Arizona, Tennessee, Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico. As part of the test procedure, ownersof cars emitting excessively were asked to correct the problem and report the cost.

Average repair cost tobring cars within acceptable emission limits was $16, NHTSA reports.

According to the authors, "MPG is often sensitive to relatively minor problems such as carburetor adjustments, timing, point adjustment or bad spark plugs, and these are relatively inexpensive to repair."

An over-all average reduction of 22 percent for hydrocarbons and 12 percent for carbon monoxide was realized after repairs were made. In addition, the Problem chaser checklist to clip and use

Any lover of detective stories enjoys sorting out the clues and guessing in advance who the culprit is.

Motorists can play detective to more productive advantage by fathoming clues provided by their cars when mechanical problems occur.

By determining what's happening, when it happens and how long it has been happening, valuable information can be obtained to help lead to the solution of the problem.

The list below, provided by the Ford Parts and Service Division, Ford Motor Company, can help.

Before repairs is the time to talk

Talk is cheap, goes the old cliche. But when it comes to caring for your car, failure to talk can prove expensive indeed.

The nation is paying needlessly an exorbitant price in wasted fuel, deteriorated air quality and avoidable accidents. One reason for this stems from a breakdown in customer-mechanic dialog.

As a case in point, the average car owner tends to neglect proper maintenance of his or her car. We know that nearly 80 percent of all cars on the road today are undermaintained in areas affecting efficient use of fuel, emission control and optimum performance.

Basic service lacking

In addition, an unhealthy percentage of automobiles lacks basic service to assure maximum safety of operation.

A major root cause of the situation can be rectified by getting the motorist and the mechanic on the same wave length.

According to a U.S. government-financed study, the key to service satisfaction is effective communication. It depends on an accurate as possible description by the motorist of what the problem is.

When the motorist and the mechanic understand one another, there is a high rate of customer satisfaction with the job done, the survey states.

After all, an automobile can't talk. It lacks the ability to tell a mechanic what ails it. The person who drives that automobile has the responsibility to describe what the problem is, how long it has been occurring and when it occurs. The service mechanic must understand this description and provide competent maintenance guidance in return.

Unreasonable expectations

It is unreasonable to expect a mechanic to identify and correct a cooling system problem when you drove in complaining about the brakes. It is equally unreasonable of the mechanic to expect an engineer's explanation of a problem from average customers.

To establish such communication, it is most important that the motorist keep a record of all services performed on the car. By doing so, the motorist can avoid duplication of services such as a mechanic installing a new set of spark plugs when plugs were installed only a few weeks previously.

Contact from the mechanic before work is begun, if any problem beyond the ones you complained of are discovered. The same goes for any cost estimates much beyond the original estimate.

Return of any parts replaced. You may not want to keep a grease-coated set of old shocks, but you should at least be allowed to examine them.

Respect from the mechanic who should never overestimate your knowledge or underestimate your intelligence.

Now that the appealing time for motoring, the warm weather vacation period is upon us, getting your car in condition for the road makes sense. This newspaper section is intended to provide you with information to make you more aware of what it takes to care for your car.

Happy motoring

By using this information and your own common sense to communicate effectively with those who service your car, you'll enjoy happy motoring in the months to come.

Free booklet offered

Called "A Quick Course in Car Care," it covers all of the basic things you should know about getting the cooling system ready for the next season.

Written in non-technical terms, the booklet includes a diagram of a typical cooling system showing the location of parts and a quick quiz so that you can prove to yourself that you have learned your subject.

For your free copy of "Quick Course in Car Care" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Automotive Cooling Systems Institute; 222 Cedar Lane; Teaneck, New Jersey 02666.

Don't forget wipers

Fog is a driving hazard — especially when a dense fog sweeps in while you are driving at expressway speeds.

When this happens, get off the expressway as quickly as possibly. You'll be safer from rear-end collisions on lesser roads.

Better yet, don't drive.

As soon as fog creeps over the road, turn on your windshield wipers. "Dense" fog is merely a fine accumulation of mist.

Once the wipers are operating, you'll probably find the fog not as dense as you first thought.

If your wipers streak, squirt washer fluid on the windshield. This should wash away any oily accumulation.

If streaking continues, replace wiper rubber refills at the nearest service station.

Whenever fog rolls in, even in daytime, turn your headlights on low-beam. Without lights, you are invisible to anyone coming from behind at high speeds.

Headlights also let drivers approaching from the opposite direction see you.

Stopping at attractions along the way makes trips more enjoyable for the children. When an easy to use instant camera is along, the trip becomes more memorable.

7 Plan trip wisely

With the summer vacation season in full bloom, millions of families will pack the family car and be off on long trips.

With small children, a bit of planning will keep them occupied and out of the hair of the parents and the other children.

There should be books, materials for drawing and coloring, and games which do not require a large area. Make the selection based on what they would enjoy on a rainy day at home.

Bear in mind that youngsters grow restless, so include plans to make stops at rest areas where they can run off excess energy. Bring along a ball so they can have a quick game.

A 10-minute stop will do wonders for both the children and the adults and the travel time lost will be compensated for by a more relaxed atmosphere in the car. Have them make a "pit stop" before resuming the trip.

A selection of snacks also will make the trip seem faster.

Bring along some shopping bags for litter and also carry some pre-moistened face-hand wipes.

Try to create an interest in geography by showing the children maps and reading about points of interest you will be passing or visiting.

One of the most successful, yet educational, diversions on a long trip is a contest for spotting license plates from other states. The first 25 states get one point each for the spotter, the next 15 get two points each, four points for the next eight, and five points for the final two.

Tire care reduces care costs

Proper maintenance of tires and wheel alignment can reduce vehicle operating costs, the Car Care Council advises.

For example, tires underinflated by only eight pounds can reduce gas mileage by five percent and cut tire life by 25 percent or more. Cost-conscious motorists, the Council suggests, will check tire inflation frequently with their own gauges, available in most automotive stores for less than two dollars.

Owners also should check tires for abnormal wear when vehicles are on lifts for lubrication or underframe service.

Further reduction of fuel consumption would be the result of incorrect alignment, which can result in at least two percent per-tankful energy loss — as well as reducing tire life.

The Council points out there are two easy ways to detect incorrect alignment of tire balance, indicating the need for cost-saving wheel or front end service:

1. Looseness or excessive play in steering, or difficulty in controlling the vehicle over bumps and around curves are indications of problems which need correcting.

2. Another is vibration or the slightest shimmy.

When vehicles are on lubrication lifts, another preventive maintenance check would be asking a qualified mechanic to check the front end and steering for looseness, and shock absorbers for leaks.

A good mechanic can determine the corrective measures needed for steering and suspension systems . . . or advise that ball joints, steering linkage and shock absorbers still are dependable but wearing to the point where replacement would be advisable in the near future.

If parts replacement is recommended, the Council advises against economic short cuts in quality of parts, extent of service and cut-rate estimates. Insufficient service to save a few dollars can mean much higher future repair bills as a result of the penny-wise philosophy.

Careful attention to steering, suspension and tires are among the major considerations to keep vehicle maintenance costs low.

vehicle failure rate for emissions decreased from 23 percent to 10 percent over a one-year period.

The report states: "Automotive traffic is responsible for 75 percent of all urban carbon monoxide emissions, 50 percent of all hydrocarbons and 50 percent of nitrogen oxides."

The Environmental Protection Agency studies indicate inspection and maintenance programs will reduce pollution from vehicles in a cost-effective manner and that most defects causing polution and wasting fuel can be repaired at a reasonable cost.

Check your ignition

Ever since the Cain and Abel incident, which contradicted the Biblical adage "a man's span of years shall be three score and ten . . .," the human race has taken a skeptical view of warranties. When Cain slew his brother early in life, Abel was in no position to ask for a recount.

The moral of the story for motorists is not to take chances on critical car parts just because the recommended service interval has been extended.

A case in point is the ignition system. New car owners manuals often identify their service-free life as being up to 30,000 miles. Although electronic ignitions have eliminated breaker points they still consist of parts that are subject to wear, erosion or breakage.

WATCH PRESSURE. . .
